4 Close Contests Expected to Bring Action for Recounts

Millions of Votes Involved In Neck-and-Neck Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of dollars apparently must be spent and millions of votes recounted to determine at least three governors and one senator. And another gubernatorial race is so close it may go to a recount.

With the election 11 days old, residents of Massachusetts, Maine, Minnesota and Rhode Island still don't know for sure who their next governor will be. The same applies to a Senate seat in South Dakota.

The latest figures show:

In Massachusetts, Democrat Endicott Peabody won the official count 1,051,653 to 1,048,562 for Republican Gov. John A. Volpe, a margin of 3,091 votes. Volpe is seeking a recount.

Recounts Probable

In Maine, Republican Gov. John H. Reed won re-election by 621 votes over Democrat Maynard Dolloff. But Dolloff has filed for a recount of the official tabulation which gave him 146,121 votes to Reed's 146,742.

In Minnesota, Democratic Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag held a 98-vote lead over Republican Gov. Elmer T. Andersen as an official canvass of the votes neared the end. The loser probably will ask a recount.

In Rhode Island, Republican challenger John H. Chafee held a 132-vote lead over Democratic Gov. John A. Notte Jr. in the canvass with the outcome hinging on more than 7,000 absentee ballots that won't all be counted until next week.

South Dakota Race

In South Dakota, Democrat George McGovern picked up a few votes in the official canvass Friday to move 223 votes ahead of Republican Sen. Joe Bottum, who was working on petitions for a recount.

With the official canvassing completed in some of the close races and nearing an end in others, the attention began swinging to the recount situation.

In Massachusetts Gov. Volpe said that he was seeking a recount because a change of one vote a precinct in his favor would put him ahead. His recount petition is expected to be presented early next week.

Each municipality bears the cost and Secretary of State Kevin White estimated it would run them about $800,000 plus $20,000 a day since Nov. 7 for guarding the ballots. A recount probably would begin Nov. 27 and last more than a week.

Canvass Awaited

Maine officials estimate their recount will cost the state only about $5,000. It is scheduled to begin Nov. 26 and last three weeks.

Neither Gov. Andersen nor Lt. Gov. Rolvaag has sought a recount in Minnesota because the State Canvassing Board, which meets Tuesday, hasn't declared a winner. But the closeness of the vote—619,708 for Rolvaag and 619,610 for Andersen—indicates the loser will seek one.

Under Minnesota law, the loser pays for the second count, but the courts can force areas where errors show up to chip in. The cost estimates range from $100,000 to

Another Stride Toward Moon Taken by U. S.

Saturn Superbooster Shot Successful for Third Straight Time

BY HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The United States has taken another stride toward the moon with the third straight successful test launching of the Saturn superbooster.

The monster rocket performed flawlessly Friday on a 4-minute 55-second flight in which the booster's tanks were fully fueled for the first time. As on the two previous shots, only the first stage was tested and its eight engines built up the planned thrust of 1.3 million pounds.

D. Brainard Holmes, director of manned space flight for the National Aeronautics and Space flight for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, termed the flight "another step in a sound development program in the conquest of space, aimed at manned lunar landing."

Flight Called Perfect

Dr. Wernher Von Braun, who heads NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, told newsmen the flight was perfect and that plans are pushing ahead for the launching of Saturn No. 4 in the spring.

The fourth Saturn will be the last test of the first stage only. One of its engines will be intentionally cut off during flight to determine how well the rocket performs without it.

The Saturn powerplant is designed to shut off flow of fuel to a bad engine and distribute it evenly to the other seven. In this way, the burning time of the seven working engines is increasing and theoretically there is no loss of performance.

Saturn No. 5, slated for firing late next year, will be the first to generate full operational thrust of 1.5 million pounds and also the first to fly the second stage.

Von Braun said the second stage, which burns high energy liquid hydrogen fuel, is presently the bottleneck in the Saturn program.

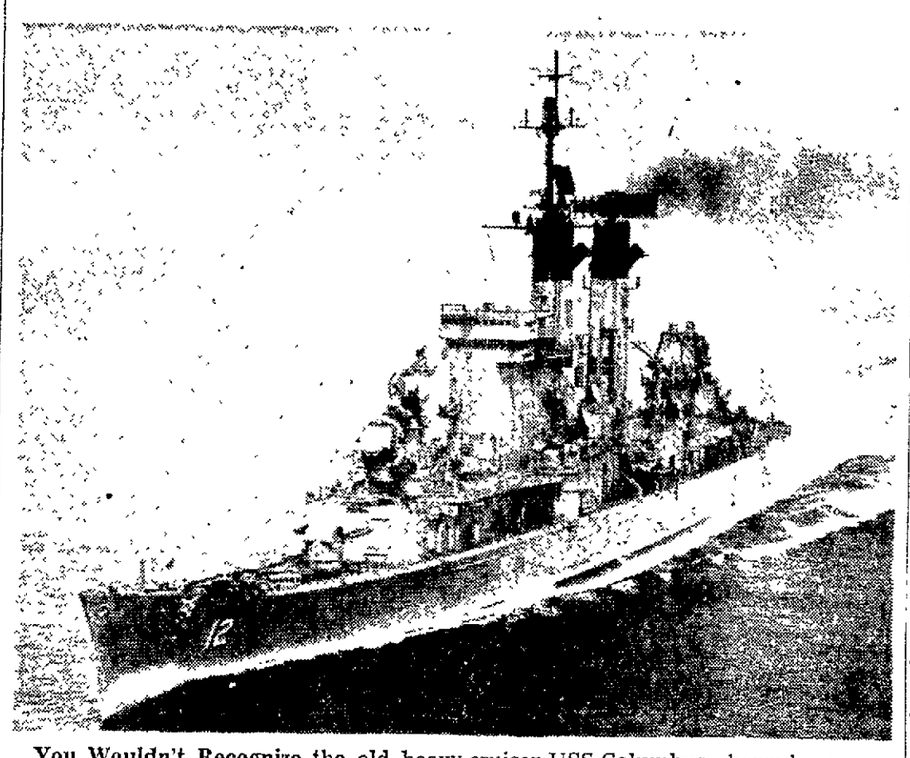

"The problem with the second stage," he said, "is now no longer the liquid hydrogen technology. It is engineering it to fit in with the over-all vehicle."

Around Moon in 1966

The former German rocket expert said that starting with flight No. 6 Saturn will carry early models of the Apollo moonship. The 11th Saturn, he said, is the one earmarked to carry the three-man Apollo team into orbit for a two-week stay. This will be late 1964 or early 1965.

By 1966, an advanced Saturn

India Braces For Assaults

Fighting Breaks Out At 2 Critical Points In Himalayas

BY HENRY S. BRADSHER

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Anxious Indian commanders braced for possible Chinese assaults at two other critical points today following renewal of sharp fighting around a key Indian position at the eastern end of the rugged Himalayan frontier.

Vulnerable is Chushul airfield, nearly three miles high in the mountains of Ladakh at the western end of the disputed border. Chushul is the key to the Indian effort to hold a defense line in that region where 2,500 square miles of territory have been lost since the Chinese offensive began Oct. 20.

The other critical point is some 1,000 miles to the east around the Buddhist monastery town of Towang in India's northeast frontier district. The Indian defenses are based on 13,756-foot Se Pass, a dozen miles southeast of Towang.

Invasion Could Broaden

Any large-scale battle there might determine whether the Chinese would carry the border war into a full-dress invasion of the thickly settled plains of Assam below the mountains.

By Chinese account, Indian forces already have launched an attack in the Towang area.

A Chinese broadcast mentioned fighting there as well as in the Walong region 300 miles to the east, where the Indians said Friday they were holding their ground against what they called a massive Chinese counterattack.

The Chinese struck in the Walong area, near the Burma border, Thursday night after a week in which each side tested the other's positions with patrol actions.

On Wednesday, India sent men against a Chinese-held hill northwest of Walong on the right bank of the Luhit River. The Indians captured the lower slopes of the hill with the loss of 10 dead and 20 wounded, a Defense Ministry spokesman said and inflicted about the same casualties on the Chinese.

After the Indians reinforced their newly won position, the Chinese launched a counterattack. Later, according to the Defense Ministry spokesman, the Chinese launched a massive attack at other points in the Walong area, using superior numbers of troops.

Asks Quick Withdrawal From Cuba

BY JOHN HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is reported to be increasing its diplomatic pressure on Russia for prompt removal of Soviet jet bombers in Cuba.

Withdrawal of the planes — the last of the offensive weapons to which the United States made specific objection — dominates all U.S.-Soviet contacts, including personal exchanges between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev, informants said.

Kennedy is understood to have made clear to Khrushchev that it will be impossible for the United States to move on any other front of diplomatic relations until the bomber problem is settled.

The President and his advisers regard it in large part as an issue of good faith, since Khrushchev promised to take from Cuba all the offensive weapons to which Kennedy objected and not just the 42 missiles cleared out last weekend.

Can't Back Castro

Washington officials said the bomber issue is of greater concern than Prime Minister Fidel Castro's threat to shoot down U.S. reconnaissance aircraft.

Their confidence apparently rested on a belief the Russians would not support Castro in any military action that was sure to bring U.S. retaliation. It was assumed here that the big surface to air missile bases of which the Soviets set up 22 in Cuba are under Soviet command and the control of Soviet troops.

Authorities said that Castro certainly has the power to fire on and perhaps to knock down some U.S. planes. And there was no denial that if this happened it would

55 Paintings Recovered by French Police

PARIS (AP)—All but one of 56 valuable paintings stolen 16 months ago from an unguarded museum in a Riviera resort have been recovered.

Police, acting on an anonymous tip to Cultural Minister Andre Malraux, found the paintings, Friday in a dilapidated, abandoned barn in Villiers-Saint-Georges near Paris.

The collection, including works by such famous modern French artists as Dufy and Matisse, is valued at about $1.6 million.

A preliminary police check disclosed that two or three paintings were damaged slightly. An Aquarelle by Dunoyer de Segonzac was missing.

The paintings had been removed from their frames and rolled together carefully. They apparently had not been in the barn long, police said.

Thieves who experts said had a discriminating taste stole the paintings July 17, 1961, from the Annonciade Museum, a converted chapel in the resort village of Saint Tropez.

They jimmied a door lock at night and hauled the paintings off in a truck stolen from a tourist.

Kennedy and Ike Dedicate Airport

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dulles International Airport — still a-building—was to be formally dedicated today by President Kennedy and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

About 100 men worked through the night adding finishing touches, but the sleek new terminal designed by the late Eero Saarinen won't be completed even when the big jetliners start swooshing in and out Monday morning.

Close to 100,000 persons were expected for today's ceremonies. Guest of honor will be Mrs. John Foster Dulles, widow of the secretary of state for whom the airport is named.

Although some airlines will begin regular service to and from Dulles Monday, most plan to wait until after Jan. 1.

Duluth Opens Fight for Life Of Mongoose

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Duluth citizens and officialdom marshalled forces today to save Mr. Magoo, pet mongoose at the city zoo, from the death sentence passed on him by federal agents.

The animal, gift of a foreign seaman who visited here last week, has been ordered destroyed by the Fish and Wildlife Service.

His presence in this country is outlawed by a 1909 law, say the government agents, because of the mongoose's reputed ability to reproduce rapidly, sometimes at the rate of six litters a year.

Pooh-pooh, chorus the backers of Mr. Magoo, citing that he is a bachelor who has become a feature attraction at the zoo. The city even has offered to have him desexed.

No good, answer the federal authorities, there's that law . . .

Mayor George D. Johnson is seeking a reprieve for Mr. Magoo in a personal wire to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall. Meanwhile he has ordered the city attorney to seek a court restraining order against the execution.

The keepers have padlocked Mr. Magoo's cage and report they have thrown away the key. Citizen's are circulating petitions, wiring and writing their congressman.

Mr. Magoo continues to enjoy his drink of tea now and then. And, tamed by his former sailor owner, he nestles contentedly against the neck of any keeper who picks him up, just as though there wasn't any such thing as a death sentence.

Kenosha Union Votes On Proposed Contract

KENOSHA (AP) — Some 1,000 members of Local 9322 of the United Steelworkers union will vote next Saturday on a contract proposal by Anaconda American Brass Co.

Walter J. Burke, the union's district director, said Friday night, the workers will vote on the contract "and then act on it." He said "A strike is not imminent."

The employes have continued working since expiration of their old contract July 15. Burke declined to give details of the contract proposal, but said the "entire contract was open—wages, grievance procedure and the usual non-economic things."

A company spokesman declined to comment on the negotiations.

Sabotage Goal

Pro-Castro Arms Uncovered by FBI

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI announced today seizure of a cache of weapons and explosives equipment from pro-Castro Cubans.

Three persons, including a member of the Cuban mission to the United Nations, were arrested on charges including conspiracy to commit sabotage.

The seizure was made in New York.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said those arrested were:

Roberto Santiesteban Casanova, 27, a newly arrived attache at the Cuban mission to the United Nations and Antonio Sueiro, 22, and Jose Garcia Orellana, 42, both of New York City.

Others Involved

Other members of the Cuban mission to the United Nations named as involved in the conspiracy are Jose Gomez Abad, 21, and his wife, Elsa, 20. They have not yet been arrested.

A federal complaint filed by the FBI in New York City Friday alleges that they delivered incendiary devices and other explosive materials to Jose Garcia.

Hoover said Roberto Santiesteban, had a fully loaded Mauser semiautomatic pistol on his person when he was arrested.

He violently resisted arrest and it was necessary for agents to subdue him. He additionally had secret explosive formulas in his possession which he tried to swallow at the time of apprehension, Hoover said. These were recovered by the FBI.

Philatelist Obtains Court Order to Stop Sale of Faulty Stamps

WASHINGTON (AP)—A wrathful philatelist has struck back at the Post Office Department—but too late to stop it from selling 320,000 intentionally imperfect stamps.

The Post Office had been unloading the special misprints of the Dag Hammarskjold memorial stamps for four hours Friday when the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered it to stop.

The court order was obtained in Newark, N.J., by Leonard Sherman of Irvington, N.J., holder of a 50-stamp pane of the original accidental misprints that he valued at $500,000.

The post office suspended sale but announced that the Justice Department has asked U.S. Atty. David M. Satz Jr. of Newark to petition the entire Third Circuit Court in Philadelphia Monday to dissolve the order.

If successful, the post office presumably will resume selling the misprints. It hopes that by flooding the market with deliberate mistakes it will keep the original misprints from becoming little goldmines for collectors.

Hyannis Port Vacation For Kennedy Family

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and his family plan to spend the Thanksgiving weekend at their vacation home in Hyannis Port, Mass.

The President, Mrs. Kennedy and their children will fly to Cape Cod Wednesday afternoon, where the Kennedy clan gathers traditionally for a Thanksgiving reunion. The chief executive's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, is there now, convalescing from a stroke suffered last December.

Soldiers Fight Surf To Unload Army Tanks

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP)—Soldiers battled rolling surf and tricky currents to unload big Army tanks on desolate Hutchinson Island today as the first war games staged since the Cuban crisis pressed forward on Florida's east coast.

Involved are 1,500 men of the "Old Ironsides" First Armored Division, who were rushed to Florida when the crisis over Cuba erupted.

French Well Digger Saved After 21 Hours

DOUARNENEZ, France (AP)—Rescue workers Friday saved well digger Albert Cam, who was trapped for 21 hours 30 feet below the surface by a cave-in. Workmen dug throughout most of the night to free Cam, 32, who suffered only slight injuries.

Voodooism Caused

Bishop and 3 Priests Deported by Haiti

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The Negro Republic of Haiti, in a renewal of a feud with the Church, accused a Roman Catholic bishop Friday of crusading against voodoo and ordered him and three priests deported.

The Haitian government also charged that the 60-year-old French-born bishop, the Most Rev. Paul Robert, had conducted a defamation campaign against strongman President Francois Duvalier in 1957, when Duvalier won re-election to a second term. The bishop was called "an enemy of the government."

The voodoo charges dated back to 1941.

Bishop Robert and the priests were to fly to New York today via Miami, Fla. The bishop was to go on to Rome to report to the Vatican.

The priests, also French-born, were identified only as Robin, George Martin and Salius.

The expulsions brought to 12 the number of Catholic clergymen ordered out of Haiti in the last two years by Duvalier.

The president of the French-speaking nation was excommunicated in January 1961 for his role in expelling other high-ranking clergy on charges of allegedly conniving with Communists. Vatican sources at that time said the clergy resisted the government's attempt to impose the voodoo tradition on Catholicism.

Duvalier regards primitive religions with more than average interest.

The Haitian government, unsuccessful in efforts to have the Vatican recall Bishop Robert from his diocese at Gonaives, removed him to a home for aged priests in the capital city of Port-au-Prince in February 1961.

The bishop, in Haiti for 39 years, and other clerics got a few Haitians in 1941 to take antisuperstition oaths and destroy their voodoo temples and charms. The government cracked down on the church effort.

Voodooism, introduced into the Caribbean and the southern United States by African slaves, relies largely on sorcery and the use of charms. Rites at one time involved the sacrifice of humans. The primitive religion retains its strongest hold in Haiti.

U. S. Marshals Hit By Grand Jurors In Mississippi

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — The Lafayette County grand jury, blaming federal marshals for "agitating and provoking violence" during desegregation rioting at the University of Mississippi, has handed down two secret indictments.

No names were released by the grand jury as it acted Friday after studying for a week the Sept. 30 riot that followed the arrival of James H. Meredith, a Negro, on the Ole Miss campus.

However, it lashed out at Chief U.S. Marshal James P. McShane for his order to fire tear gas at demonstrators that night.

"We find that this illegal action on the part of McShane set off the tragic violence which followed," the grand jury report said.

Sheriff Joe Ford of Lafayette County was directed to arrest the two persons and have them in the next session of court, scheduled for March 2, 1963.

The names of the indicted persons will not be released until they are arrested, under Mississippi law. Both are from outside Mississippi, according to Circuit Judge Walter M. O'Barr.

Common Mart Brings Closer Ties to Church

Roman Catholics Feel Frontiers No Longer Exist

VATICAN CITY (AP) — European Catholicism is entering a new era of close community, common-market style, a leading Roman Catholic churchman believes.

"For the first time in the history of the church in Europe, bishops have come together for collaboration on common problems," said Franziskus Cardinal Koenig, archbishop of Vienna.

He said in an interview that the new sense of mutual identity among European prelates has emerged at the Vatican Ecumenical Council, and he predicted it will continue.

It has involved, he said, church leaders of Germany, Belgium, France, the Netherlands, Austria, Switzerland, Poland and Yugoslavia, areas of differing languages, and often, historical divisions.

Were Seperated

"In the past," Cardinal Koenig said, "we have been separated by these frontiers. There has been some contact among bishops on an individual basis, but never before have we come together on this wide European basis."

As the cardinal sees it, the new European ecclesiastical association, paralleling in some respects the emerging economic ties in Europe, is among the most significant developments of the council

"It is very important," he said. "We've found we have very much in common, more than we knew. We have established contacts here that will not disappear again."

The cardinal, 57, a scholar in comparative religion who once was a theology professor at the universities of Vienna and Salzburg, said the new pattern is part of a new church emphasis on regional leadership.

"We have come to a time when the bishops need more latitude of action," he said.

Ask More Power

Proposals for spreading more authority among the bishops, with less power centered on the Vatican Curia, are to be considered by the current council.

As a result of the council, and of the new solidarity among European prelates, the cardinal foresees continuing close relationships among them, in some regularized form.

Although church conferences in the past have been maintained on a national basis, he said that some system of multinational conferences, cross the old frontiers, is likely in the future.

A leader in the movement for Christian unity, Cardinal Koenig said that the Nazi persecutions of the past and the present Communist difficulties in some European areas have helped to bring all Christians closer together in west-central Europe.

Reds Rebuff Church's Try To Break Wall

Chicago Daily News Service

BERLIN — East German Communist authorities put an abrupt end to the hopes of Berliners that they might be permitted at Christmas to visit families on the other side of the wall.

Efforts by Evangelical Church leaders in both parts of the divided city to lower the Communist barriers just a little during the holiday season were described in East Berlin as nothing but a "new propaganda move in the cold war."

An estimated two-thirds of the Berliners have relatives or close friends "on the other side." They have been able to exchange letters but have had no personal contact since the Communist coup of Aug. 13, 1961, and the building of the hated wall.

The Communist Party newspaper, Neues Deutschland, said that permits could only be arranged through negotiations between the city government of West Berlin and the government of the "German Democratic Republic," as the Communists designate the surrounding Soviet-controlled one.

West Berlin has refused to be drawn into any such official negotiations on the grounds that this would constitute recognition of Nikita Khrushchev's demand that West Berlin be considered an entity entirely separate from West Germany on which the city is dependent.

Learn About Habits of Finesses

BY ALFRED SHWINWOLD

One of th ese days some scientist will write a book on how finesses spend their time when they're not tempting bridge players to go wrong. When we learn more about their habits maybe we can resist finesses with less strain, and perhaps the average player can do a proper job on a hand like this:

South ruffed the second spade, drew trumps, and tried the diamond finesse. This lost to the queen of diamonds, and back came a third round of spades.

South ruffed again and tried leading toward dummy's queen of clubs. This was a type of finesse also, but it enjoyed the same success as the diamond finesse. East captured the queen of clubs with the king, and South had to lose a second club trick later.

Beyond His Strength

Now South was a perfectly decent man, but he was tempted beyond his strength. He saw two finesses, and he went for them. If he hadn't taken either finesse he would still be a respected member of the community.

The right line of play is to draw trumps with the ace and queen and then lead dummy's queen of spades. East plays the king of spades, and South discards a club or a diamond, allowing East to hold the trick.

Now East is in the soup. If he returns a club or a diamond, he gives dummy a free finesse. (There's nothing immoral about this kind of finesse; it's just the losing finesse that's bad for your soul.) If East returns a spade, declarer ruffs in dummy and discards another loser from his hand.

In any case, South is sure to win ten tricks. It's just a matter of knowing how to resist temptation.

Answer: Bid two hearts if not vulnerable; pass if you are vulnerable. You can reasonably expect to win five or six tricks in your own hand, and you have an outside chance to reach game if partner has a fit for hearts and some good cards. However, the risk of a disaster is too great if you are vulnerable.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

(AP Newsfeatures)

"The Best Thanksgiving," said Cotton Mather, one of the great colonial spiritual leaders, "is thanksliving."

The words Mather spoke in a Thanksgiving Day sermon in Boston in 1689 are as timely today as they were then, for he based them on the ageless pages of scripture.

Mather quoted Isaiah, "Sing unto the Lord; for He hath done excellent things. This is known in all the earth."

"Since excellent things are done by God," Mather told his congregation, "there are two things to be done by us. First, we ought with many praises to observe the excellent things which God has done for ourselves. Secondly, we ought with many praises to observe the excellent things God has done for others. . . Our lives are likewise to be employed in the praises of God. We have hands as well as tongues for it."

Mather concluded with the words of the 105th Psalm:

"Give thanks unto the Lord; call upon His name: Make known His deeds among the people . . . Talk ye of all His wondrous works."

Newsmen Protesting Speech Limitations By State Department

WASHINGTON (AP)—Newsmen have protested that a State Department order will discourage officials from providing legitimate news information.

In a letter they asked the assistant secretary of state, Robert Manning, to reconsider the order which requires State Department officers to report talks they have with newsmen to the Bureau of Public Affairs.

Manning, the bureau's chief, told a news conference he was studying the protest.

Manning's instructions, similar to news regulations clamped on at the Pentagon during the Cuban crisis, requires that any official who gives an interview report the journalist's name and the date and subject of the interview.

Your Problems

Look of Diplomacy Creates Need for Change of Party Line

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've always had a private telephone line until recently. Now I'm on a party line—the other party is the family next door.

Landers

They have a 17-year-old son who screams "Hey, get off the line!" whenever I pick up the receiver. What possible interest could I have in listening to this boy jabber with his high school friends?

After being shouted at and insulted several times I sat down and wrote a letter to the boy's father. I received no reply. If someone had written a similar letter to me I would have been over immediately to discuss the problem.

Now whenever I encounter a member of that family they turn their heads. Do you feel I should not have written the letter? What are your views on parents who take their children's side—right or wrong?—Grand Rapids

Dear Grand: The father should have responded to your letter as a matter of courtesy. (Perhaps, too, you should have discussed the problem face to face with his mother or father.)

Parents do their children no favor when they take their side against adults who have legitimate complaints. This boy was clearly disrespectful.

In most cities the telephone company will change your party line partner if you have a good reason for requesting it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am engaged to a wonderful guy. Carl is very stubborn and he can make white look like black if he sets his mind to it.

The other evening he was over for dinner. Several relatives dropped in later and we were all seated in the living room. I looked up and saw Carl reading the newspaper. I gave him the eye but it did no good. He continued to read. Then he started to work the crossword puzzle. His only contribution to the conversation was an occasional sentence, such as, "Do you know a three letter word for rodent?"

When we were alone I told Carl I was appalled by his bad manners. He claims the company didn't come to see him and furthermore he was bored listening to family conversation.

Is he right or wrong?—Celeste

Dear Celeste: He's wrong. It's insulting to guests to have a newspaper read in one's face. (P.S. Tell him a four-letter word for Carl is r-u-d-e.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing this letter after being sober for two weeks—which is a long stretch for me. Congratulations are not in order yet—perhaps in two years. But I can't wait two years to let other young housewives know how easy it is to slip and slide merrily down the road to absolute hell.

It started a few years ago. An illness in the family, the inevitable medical bills, worry, quarreling, nervousness—and at last, one drink to help me sleep. Then three drinks at bedtime because one no longer helped. Next was one shot in the morning to "get me going." Then at 10 a.m. some bourbon in the coke. Soon I was "sipping" all day.

When my husband came home one evening and found me passed out on the living room floor and the children running loose in the neighborhood at 6:30 p.m. he laid down the law. I made promises—which I broke. It was the same story over and over again.

Finally he saw a lawyer about a divorce. The lawyer suggested a psychologist and a marriage counselor for us both. My husband agreed and it worked like a miracle.

I feel strong and confident—and most of all thankful. I know I can make it now. So I say to you women who may recognize yourselves in my story: Get help. The bottle is to big to fight alone.—Marge.

Dear Marge: Thank you for writing. Let's hear from you again—one year from today.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How to be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pumice Can Produce High Polish

BY ROGER WHITMAN

Q: Which gives a higher polish: pumice stone or rotten stone? Should they be used with oil or water?

A: Rotten stone is soft and fine and will give a higher polish than pumice stone. Either one used with water will give a higher polish than used with oil.

Dirty Skylight

Q: How can I clean the outside of a glass skylight which has become very sooty and dirty? Ordinary glass and window cleaners don't do a satisfactory job.

A: Wet the surface with kerosene and allow to remain about an hour (or two) to soften the grime. This can be easily washed away then. Be very careful of the fire hazard while using the kerosene.

Damp Spots Under Attic Insulation

Q: I have a one floor plan with stairs leading into the attic, with a door at the foot of the stairs. The attic has been insulated with rock wool for several years. This past summer damp spots appeared on the ceiling of the dining room. I have two windows in the attic which are partly open the year around. I have been told that after a time rock wool gathers dampness. Is this so? What could cause the dampness and what can be done about it? I am sure the roof does not leak. Am thinking of removing the insulation. What do you suggest?

A: I assume you mean the attic floor has been insulated with the rock wool. Like any porous or matted material, rock wool will hold moisture. Apparently, your insulation was put in without a moistureproof barrier (installed toward the heated rooms below—between room ceilings and the rock wool). Your attic, too, probably has insufficient air circulation and ventilation: Louver or window openings (all year round) should total at least one square foot for each 300 square feet of attic floor area.

Sorry to say, but the present insulation should be replaced with a type having a vapor barrier, or at least an aluminum foil layer should be put down before any insulation is installed. Your dealer should have manufacturer's detailed instructions available; these should be carefully followed. Or send 25 cents to National Mineral Wool Insulation Association, 1270 Sixth Ave., New York 20, N. Y., for a copy of their excellent "How to Install Mineral Wool Insulation in Homes."

Bishops Work To Agree On Theology

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Steps were taken in the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council today to compromise a major split over a theological issue considered crucial to efforts for Christian unity.

The dispute, over a thesis on the sources of divine revelation, had brought so-called conservative and progressive elements in the council into direct conflict.

But in Friday's closed meeting in St. Peter's, a spokesman said, proposals were made to create a study group composed of council fathers of the two tendencies to find a point of agreement that would take into account the different views heard in the past two council sessions.

The thesis, which deals with scriptures and tradition as sources of the revealed word of God, was drafted by a commission headed by Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, considered a leading conservative.

When it first came up, some council fathers supported it. Others suggested that it be shelved. A third group wanted an entirely new text.

The three views appeared to have narrowed to two Friday. There was no sign of further requests to shelve the matter. Instead, a spokesman said, prelates spoke from two viewpoints—those who want a new text and those who want to stick to the present draft.

Another Stride Toward Moon Taken by U. S.

with 7.5 million pounds of thrust is scheduled to whirl an Apollo team into orbit around the moon. Before 1970, the larger Saturn is expected to hurl another Apollo craft into lunar orbit and this time two of the astronauts will drop to the moon's surface in a capsule. After exploring for awhile, they will return to the circling Apollo and rocket back to earth.

The Saturn fired Friday rose to an altitude of 104 miles, where it was deliberately blown up by ground signal to spill 23,000 gallons of water into the icy ionosphere.

The water, carried as ballast in two dummy upper stages, formed a massive cloud of ice particles that was visible for about three seconds from Cape Canaveral. Plane and ground-based cameras and other instruments studied it for information about atmospheric physics.

These Maps, Based on those supplied Friday by the United States Weather Bureau, forecast the probable rainfall and temperatures for the next 30 days. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Snow, Rain Cover Most Of Country

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gloomy weather enveloped practically the entire country today as overcast skies dropped snow and rain on many areas.

The East began digging out from under snows that measured 11 inches in Old Town, Maine, and 9 inches in Bangor.

Snow pelted the Rocky Mountain states, with Evanston, Wyo., reporting 5 inches, Cheyenne 3, Leadville, Colo., 4 and Denver 1.

Snow and rain also fell on the Midwest.

The East Coast storm continued its march across the country, centering near the Ohio Valley.

The Western storm dumped the snow on the Rockies and moved across the middle Mississipi Valley to the lower Great Lakes.

Only the extreme Southeast and Southwest were excluded from the damp weather.

Temperatures in the 20s were prevalent in the Northern Plains and the Rockies. Butte, Mont., reported the lowest temperature, 3, and Bozeman, Mont., reported 6.

U. S. Puts Pressure on Soviets on Jets Issue

No Deadline Set

Whether it would also have the result of causing Khrushchev to look more carefully at his policy on the IL28 jet bombers is a question. Since he has lost Cuba as a major nuclear missile base authorities here find it hard to believe he would pay much of a price to retain weapons of secondary importance there at the cost of serious trouble with the United States.

President Kennedy so far has not set a deadline to get the bombers out, but such a possibility has not been ruled out.

U.S. officials are considering new means to increase pressures on the Russians. One obvious device would be to refuse to permit Soviet oil tankers to pass through the U.S. naval blockade, thus blocking fuel for the bombers.

Administration officials continue to display a lack of serious concern over reports and speculations—mostly from Cuban refugee sources—that Soviet missiles have been hidden in Cuban caves.

Authorities believe a variety of military equipment is probably hidden away but deny they have solid information that nuclear weapons are cached in caves.

Nevertheless, Castro got Soviet verbal support Friday as U.S. Delegate Arthur Dean and Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin clashed on the issue before the U.N. Political Committee.

Zorin Backs Castro

Zorin called the Cuban leader's warning against U.S. flights "perfectly legitimate."

Dean declared the United States would continue scout missions over Cuba as long as necessary and give its planes protection if need be.

He told the 110-nation committee that Castro's threat carries no weight with the United States. Such flights are essential, Dean said, until Premier Khrushchev carries out his promise of on-site inspection to make sure the Soviet rockets have been pulled out of Cuba.

Dean rapped the Russians for installing missile bases in Cuba while assuring President Kennedy that no offensive weapons were being sent to Castro.

Calls Flights Unlawful

Dean said Khrushchev had been found "with his hand in the Cuban missile pot, or if you will, plot."

Stung by Dean's remarks, Zorin said any attempt by the United States to violate Cuban sovereignty, "cannot but provoke universal condemnation."

Zorin charged that the U.S. flights were unlawful and the United States' decision to continue them caused "deep concern for the peace of the world."

The exchange was triggered by Cuban Ambassador Carlos Lechuga, who interrupted the committee's disarmament debate to announce that Castro's warning went into effect "as of today."

Reliable sources said U.S. Ambassador Adlai E Stevenson had told Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov of the U.S. determination to continue Cuban surveillance Thursday night during the latest round of crisis bargaining.

U.S. sources said more talks with the Soviet negotiating team were expected, but none was scheduled for the weekend.

In Moscow, the official Soviet military newspaper Red Star declared the Soviet Union was solidly supporting Castro.

4 Recounts Held Likely

$300,000. A recount probably would take a month to six weeks.

In Rhode Island the attention is focused on the absentee ballots to break the near deadlock between Chafee and Gov. Notte. Chafee had 160,669 votes to Notte's 160,537 Friday with 368 machines still to be checked.

About 5,600 absentee ballots have been certified as valid. Added to this are between 1,500 and 2,000 servicemen's ballots that can't be opened for counting until Wednesday.

In South Dakota, attorneys for Sen Bottum were filing petitions in almost all of the state's 1,821 precincts for a recount of the senate votes.

Bottum, who filled the vacancy created by the death of Republican Sen. Francis Case earlier this year, trailed McGovern 128,763 votes to 128,540 Friday as canvassing continued for the official vote.

Rules on What to Do When a Person Faints

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: When a person is about to faint and someone gives him a glass of water, why does this prevent it?

Molner

Or if the person has fainted, administering water by mouth will usually bring him back to consciousness? I had always thought you should not give anything to an unconscious person. — M.F.H.

You are right: never give anything by mouth to an unconscious or even semi-conscious person. He cannot swallow and you risk strangling him. Fluid may get into his lungs through his windpipe.

I doubt that water is given to an unconscious person as often as your letter implies. The procedure is dangerous. It may be, however, that some lucky victims have regained consciousness in time to swallow whatever is unwisely put in their mouths.

As to the glass of water before — well, it can help but I suggest something else.

Fainting is a result of an abrupt drop in blood pressure. A drop of 25 "points" or millimeters of mercury can cause fainting in a person who is in an upright position. Blood recedes from the brain and is pooled in blood vessels of the mid-body.

Any change of position will usually snap a person out of the impending faint. The temperature of a sip of water may stimulate circulation enough to offset the faintness.

Sitting Helps

If the person falls to the floor, he ordinarily regains consciousness almost at once because the blood then flows easily to the brain.

For the same reason, just sitting down helps, and getting the head low (perhaps between the knees) is even better. If a person can remember to tense the abdominal muscles, that, too, helps force blood toward the brain.

Sipping water won't always stave off faintness, and I suspect that anyone who can stay on his feet until someone brings him water, and then can stand and drink it, probably wasn't really going to lose consciousness anyway.

So if someone says he feels faint; if his color goes grayish; there are beads of perspiration popping out on his forehead and he has a blank look, don't ask him if he still feels faint. Act promptly.

Get him down flat on whatever is handiest. The floor is a good place.

But don't go dashing off for a glass of water. You can do that after he comes to.

The first thing is to get him sitting down or lying down. Otherwise he may hurt himself as he falls.

Back Operation

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there an operation on a nerve in the back that will cure or reduce hypertension? — MRS. J.K.

Yes, such an operation is sometimes used for a certain type of high blood pressure called "malignant hypertension." The splanchic nerve is cut. It is not a cure-all for hypertension in general.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a 16-month-old daughter with a nerve injury in the upper right arm due to breech birth. She can move hand and fingers very well but cannot pick the arm up from her shoulder. Is there anything we can do for her? — C.N.

Undoubtedly, yes — but this is too specialized a problem for me to suggest treatment. Take the baby to a neurologist or to an orthopedic specialist. Either can evaluate the degree of injury and then prescribe appropriate treatment.

Sulphite Liquor May Become Valuable

Everyone in Northeastern Wisconsin knows that spent sulphite liquor is a waste product of pulp manufacture which is sometimes used as a road binder but in large part has in the past been dumped into streams in such quantities as to complicate water problems. The spent sulphite liquor remains after the fibrous part of the log used in pulp making has been extracted. The liquor contains approximately half of the material that goes to make up the original tree. Dissolved in the sulphite water which becomes waste after the pulping process are sugars, acids and a great variety of materials that would be useful if they could be separated and extracted from the liquor.

Some paper mills have disposed of a large quantity of the sulphite liquor by evaporating a certain percentage of the water and burning the rest just as fuel oil might be burned in a furnace. Other mills have used the evaporation process to reduce the bulk of the liquor after which some of the materials have been extracted and used in the production of such items as yeast and vanillin. However, these efforts have been only a partial solution of the water problem associated with the operation of pulp mills.

The pulp manufacturers have continued to experiment and only recently the Sulphite Pulp Manufacturers Research League called in the press to demonstrate the operation of a pilot plant at the Institute of Paper Chemistry and the progress that had been made in the use of a new process which may be a complete solution to the spent sulphite liquor problem.

The process known as electrodialysis has been borrowed from the work of other scientists, including those engaged in desalting sea water.

The scientists took advantage of their knowledge that substances dissolved in water break up into equal quantities of positive and negative particles. Some plastic membranes will pass only positive particles and others will pass only negative particles. These particles can be separated by a membrane placed in the water between positive and negative electrodes. The positive particles move toward the negative pole and the negative particles toward the positive pole, each passing through one membrane which keeps the other out.

Wisconsin paper mills are already putting into practical use about 40 per cent of its spent sulphite liquor. This is far above the national average but not good enough to protect surface water and not good enough to yield a profit. With the new process it is hoped that some day the pulp mills will be extracting a large quantity of salable material from this waste liquor. The pilot plant contains about $150,000 worth of equipment and has cost the league about $100,000 for fundamental research work since 1950. These outlays indicate the confidence the pulp manufacturers have in the process.

It is believed that commercial application of the electrodialized products will be widespread. It has even been suggested that these products some day may be actually more valuable than the pulp itself. The Appleton plant will be of sufficient size to process the spent liquor from a 140-ton sulphite mill. Quite obviously if a mill of that size can succeed the time will not be long until the process will be used at all pulp producing plants.

The League's chemists believe that one of the first uses of the plant will be aiding production of low grade iron ore such as taconite which has to be ground into fine powder for processing and needs to be pelletized for shipping with some sort of adhesive. The electrodialized binder developed by the research league scientists has performed perfectly in its use in the laboratory. It has also been tested in making charcoal briquets which are hard, smooth and dust-free. The same result can be achieved from coal brick. Other extracts from the spent liquor have been used as a replacement for wood glue and found most satisfactory. Portland Cement with sulphite dispersant additives has been found to set more quickly and to have a richer and smoother context.

Other materials extracted from the liquor are to be used in the production of foods, pharmaceuticals, detergents and chemicals.

The scientists have pointed out that they are working with an experimental plant and are not prepared to suggest any timetable for practical application of this knowledge. However, they say that since the basic answers appear to have been found there should be great strides forward in a relatively short time, as measured by the long years of laboratory study. It may develop in the years ahead that the law requiring the elimination of spent sulphite liquor from Wisconsin streams was a boon to the pulp manufacturers and not at all the punishment they thought.

The Russian Retreat

There still is a feeling of unreality about the Russian retreat from Cuba. The picture of Russian merchant ships, stopping at the order of the United States Navy and quietly complying with an observation of their cargoes, simply does not fit in with the years of Communist suspicion and agitation. The backing down was so sudden, so abject and apparently so complete that the free world can be expected to have some amount of confusion.

The efforts in Russia to explain the retreat are even more surprising. "When the Soviet Government was deciding the question of placing in Cuba some powerful types of weapons," Pravda stated, "this had only one aim: to defend the people of Cuba from the invasion of the aggressors. As long as the President of the United States has announced there will be no invasion of Cuba by the United States, or by other countries of the Western Hemisphere, the presence on Cuba of weapons which the U.S. Government calls offensive has lost its importance."

This is truly a remarkable statement. Since when does the Kremlin accept statements by the President of the United States as proof of truth and good faith? Since when does it acknowledge that the U.S. can deliver the promises of every other nation in this hemisphere? Since when does it bow down to U.S. opinion of what is an offensive weapon without actually admitting it?

The Soviet Union has for some time been trying to demonstrate to the world its peace-loving nature and that any nuclear devices it might explode were merely in its own protection. Do its leaders hope by the back down in Cuba to gain support for this point of view in disarmament discussions? Was there calculation behind the placing of the missiles and the withdrawal?

Or was it really the sudden show of determination in the United States coupled with what the Russians knew to be our massive strength and power which prompted the hasty retreat?

We must keep another possible reason in mind. With the Red Chinese attack upon India, Mao Tse Tung has clearly demonstrated that he pays little if any attention to the desires of the Kremlin. As the enthusiasm for Communist ideology wanes somewhat in Russia or appears to wane because the Russians are further from their violent revolution than are the Chinese, it may be possible that Khrushchev and some of his lieutenants are concerned about fighting a two front war.

If there is an increasing split between Russia and China, the free world must carefully find out the best ways to exploit it without plunging the world into all-out war. In the meantime we must take all care to be sure the Cuban withdrawal is really what it appears to be. It still seems simply too good to be true.

Crescent Chides Motor Again

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Nov. 22, 1862.

The infernal Motor of this week, in its uncontrollable rage over the great triumph of the Democracy in the recent elections, is endeavoring to exhaust its ample stock of spleen upon everything contrary to its peculiar notions.

What we refer to particulary is its villainous attempts to prove that the Democrats of Outagamie County are no better than "tories, rebels, secessionists" — in fact it styles them thus and drags in the town of Greenville as preeminently disloyal, insinuating everything villainous of its inhabitants.

Now, what are the facts? All but three, we believe, of those drafted from that town have reported here in Appleton as directed by Commissioner Myers!

Now we should like to know what the people of this county think of the policy (to say nothing more) of these contemptible slurs.

Does such slander tend to "promote enlistments," or quiet any feeling that exists?

Every sane man will scout the idea. The fact is that the article we refer to should consign that sheet to utter contempt, as it deserves

The drives at us we merely laugh at — hoping they will continue on in the same style. It's such relief for our friends to expel their surplus bile.

Four Tiny Principalities Still Cling to Independence

BY TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer

On the surface it would seem to be a frightful mismatch.

In this corner, France, once a world champion, with an area of 213,000 square miles, a population of 46 million, an army of a million men, led by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, president, war immortal and one of the genuine folk heroes of the 20th Century.

In the other corner, Monaco, area of 370 acres, population 24,000 (all but 2,000 of them foreigners), armed forces of 170 gendarmes and 100 guardsmen, led by Col. Rainier Grimaldi, prince, landlord of a gambling hall and husband of a movie star.

But don't sell the Monegasque David short in its economic dispute with the French Goliath.

BACKED IN CORNER BEFORE

Monaco and its equally tiny sister principalities, Andorra, San Marino and Liechtenstein, have been backed into corners by major powers of Europe before and they've managed to survive for hundreds of years—1,800 in the legendary case of San Marino.

It's a tribute to small power diplomacy.

Taken together, the four little independent countries would fit four times into the state of Rhode Island with two Districts of Columbia left over. Monaco alone could easily get lost among the trees of New York City's 840-acre Central Park.

Monaco, Andorra, San Marino and Liechtenstein are leftovers from the great nationalist upheavals that forged the modern states of France, Italy, Germany and Spain out of a collection of bickering principalities, duchies and baronies.

Monaco, on the sunny shore of the Mediterranean, was founded in the year 1297 by a Genoese adventurer named Grimaldi, who disguised himself as a Franciscan monk to enter the fortress and throw open its doors to his followers. It's been in the Grimaldi family ever since.

San Marino, completely surrounded by Italy, ascribes its origin to St. Marinus, an early Christian stonecutter, who found refuge from persecution on the slopes of 2,700-foot Mount Titano in the year 301. It claims to be the oldest and smallest (23 square miles) republic in the world.

The Sanmarinese, still huddled together in fierce independence on the slopes and summit of Mt. Titano, were in the news recently when they overthrew the only elected Communist government in the Western world. The Reds had ruled San Marino for 12 years following World War II.

DISBANDED ITS ARMY OF 80

Liechtenstein, so small (61 square miles) that the Paris to Vienna Express passes through in 15 minutes without stopping, was created by the Holy Roman Emperor in 1719 as a gift for a favorite prince. It became independent when the German Confederation collapsed in 1866.

Tucked away in the Alps between Austria and Switzerland, it has no standing army. Back in 1866, it sent 80 soldiers to fight for Austria against Prussia. But the war lasted only seven weeks and was over before the valiant 80 reached the front. In disgust, Liechtenstein disbanded its army for good two years later.

Andorra, 175 square miles of mountain valleys on the southern slopes of the Pyrenees between France and Spain, traces its existence as a state back to the Emperor Charlemagne. Its national anthem in the Catalan language begins: "El Gran Carlemany mon pare" (Great Charemagne my father).

The government of Andorra is unique. It's ruled by co-princes—one the nearby Bishop of Urgel in Spain; the other the president of France, who inherited the mantle from the French Count of Foix through a long, involved series of marriages and revolutions.

The four little principalities exist at the sufferance of their larger neighbors. But each is self-supporting. In fact, Andorra even manages to pay a nominal yearly tribute of 960 francs to the president of France and 460 pesetas to the Bishop of Urgel.

Their incomes are derived from bizarre sources.

Liechtenstein and San Marino each probably issue more postage stamps per capita than any other country in the world. They are snapped up eagerly by collectors. A recent postage stamp catalog devotes 1½ pages to Liechtenstein issues, only 7½ to Norway.

Recently, San Marino stumped every one but the philatelists by issuing a 500 lire (75 cent) air mail stamp despite the fact that the country has no airport and no airplanes. The 20,000 stamp issue was gone in a week and San Marino was 10 million lire richer.

Andorrans, mostly shepherds and farmers, have a lively sideline smuggling goods between Spain and France. As near as anyone can figure out, smuggling is perfectly legal under Andorran laws. And, besides, the country's 12-men police force ignores it anyway.

Monaco was in sad financial straits until 1861 when the reigning prince established the famed gambling casino in Monte Carlo. By 1869, proceeds from the gaming tables covered Monaco's entire budget. In fact, Monegasques didn't even have to pay taxes until 1932.

Roughly half of the working force of Monaco is employed by the Societe Anonymes des Bains de Mer et du Cercle des Etrangers a Monaco (SBM), which operates the casino, hotels and movie theaters. SBM is controlled by the Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Socrates Omassis.

All four countries, but particularly Monaco and Liechtenstein, also provide convenient tax havens for foreign companies. They have no taxes on income or profits. Liechtenstein is the nominal business headquarters for 5,000 companies who pay a 0.1 per cent tax on paid-in capital.

The tax haven problem is behind the current dispute between Monaco and France, which is exerting economic pressure to force its tiny neighbor to start collecting income taxes from corporations and individuals to discourage the flight of French business to Monaco.

Prince Rainier III, whose princess is the former American movie star Grace Kelly, may have to compromise—but he'll never fully give in. That's how Monaco, Andorra, Liechtenstein and San Marino have managed to survive all these years.

Russians Using Castro As Way to Go Back on Cuban Commitments

BY ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The outlook for any clean, satisfactory settlement becomes more elusive, more uncertain, more disturbing every day.

President Kennedy and his top advisers are understandably hesitant to use blunt words in the middle of delicate negotiations which might have a faint chance of success.

But only a faint chance. At this point it seems to me urgent to cut through the polite words of officialdom and to look at what is happening—and what isn't happening—in Cuba since Premier Khrushchev agreed to remove all offensive Soviet weapons under UN inspection.

The blunt facts are these:

Soviet missiles were not dismantled under UN inspection. (They were hurriedly dismantled before inspection of any kind.)

Soviet missiles were not removed from Cuba under UN inspection or under any other kind of inspection. (We have been allowed to see that packed crates allegedly containing the missiles were on the decks of Soviet ships.)

Some Soviet missiles have been removed. All may have been removed. But we don't know because no trustworthy verification has been allowed.

BOMBERS NOT REMOVED

All offensive Soviet weapons have not, as promised, been removed. Soviet bombers capable of carrying nuclear warheads remain in Cuba. The Russians claim they are not "offensive." Castro claims they don't belong to Russia, that he bought them and is going to keep them.

Three weeks after Mr. Khrushchev's clear and concrete commitment, there is still no international inspection to guarantee the removal of offensive Soviet weapons and no international inspection of incoming ships to guarantee that other offensive Soviet weapons will not be returned.

That's where things stand today—and they don't stand very well. Negotiations are being dragged out until verification will be impossible without an inch-by-inch underground inspection of the whole of Cuba—which has caves as big as New York's Grand Central station. It is evident that the Russians are beginning to act like Russians. This is why the Cuban crisis is far from over.

In his letter to President Kennedy on Oct. 27 Mr. Khrushchev made his commitment explicit. He said: "Persons entrusted by the UN Security Council may check on the spot the fulfillment of the pledges made."

The President spelled out this pledge in his reply. He said: "Offensive weapons must be rendered inoperable. . .all under effective international inspection."

Mr. Khrushchev agreed. In reply he said: "As I told you in my letter of 27th October, . .representatives of the UN may verify the dismantling of these means."

Are the Soviets to escape carrying out their side of the agreement because Castro is reluctant?"

HAVE LEVERAGE ON CASTRO

It seems to me the answer to that question is that since Khrushchev made the agreement without consultation with Castro, he is obligated to fulfill it despite Castro.

The Soviets have the leverage to force Castro to acquiesce. They can cut back economic aid to the point where Castro has no alternative. The fact that they are not doing so suggests they are seeking a device to get out of their agreement.

It is not a pleasant prospect—uncertainty that offensive Soviet weapons have been removed and uncertain protection against their return.

Since Mr. Kennedy's commitment against invasion was conditional upon adequate international inspection, that commitment will have to become inoperative.

Action Against Loerke Not Morally Just, Writer Says

Editor, Post-Crescent:

It is most distressing to see a dedicated man taken to task for an insignificant circumstance which has been cited against him. Legal as far as procedure is concerned, yes, but morally just, no!

Here is a man who has served faithfully and well, far beyond his remuneration, to the benefit and well being of countless numbers of unfortunate people who are or have been patients of the County Hospital. He is devoted to and well loved by most of the regular employees of the hospital. Here also is a man who has served the taxpayers of Outagamie County far better than is the usual case in this position.

We, the residents of Outagamie County, have received bountiful benefits through the service of Norb Loerke at the County Hospital and we should not be content to see this man taken advantage of. He is an honest man, not a crook as we have been led to believe; he is dedicated to his hospital and to the care of its patients. When the facts are really known, it will be the taxpayers of this county who will be the debtors to this loyal, faithful servant of our county. We will be hard pressed to find someone else who will do this kind of a job and bring kindness and consideration to the patients of Outagamie County Hospital.

I stand ready along with many many others to say this man should not be allowed to be ruined by an unfortunate situation which under the cloak of legalities is perpetrating a grossly unjust action against society. This man should be reinstated completely and I'm sure we will find no one more circumspect in the future performance of his duties than Norb Loerke.

Visitor Is Impressed With Peabody Manor

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I should like to share with you a delightful experience. With one of our senior citizens from Kaukauna I toured Peabody Manor. As we entered the spacious and inviting lobby we felt the gracious and friendly atmosphere which permeats the entire home.

At once our wishes were asked: at once the smiling volunteer workers took charge. We were ushered in to see the gentleman who acts as director of the home. His quiet warmth set us at ease at once, as he gave us a quick summary of the rules for admission.

Then our gracious volunteer took over as guide. To the left as we entered, we saw the lovely dining room and lounge, while from the windows the sweeping expanse of trees and lawn beckoned invitingly. The kitchen drew a sigh of envy. It is a simply wonderful expanse of stainless steel and pots and pans, ovens and gadgets to turn out luscious meals.

The private rooms, "homes," I should say, as indeed they are, reflect the varied interests of each dear occupant. The color schemes are delightful, the furniture most pleasing and functional. Each room quietly speaks one message: "This is home."

The third floor serves the less able; it is the infirmary. If only its efficiency could be stretched to serve the hundreds who need it so badly! We have so many partially disabled!

My impressions are these:

1. We must congratulate Appleton on its modrn approach to the problem of providing care for our senior citizens. It can serve, however, a limited number.

2. Peabody Manor, in its beautiful construction, is a proud monument to Mr. Peabody's generosity.

3. We, in the surrounding communities know that our own senior citizens must be provided for. First the vision, then the resolve, then the sacrifice and fortitude to see the job through. Let us follow Appleton's fine example.

Pressure Is Proper Over Filling School Board Post

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Dr. McLeod's well-written letter in Thursday's paper was most interesting and the writer's record of valued service to the community gives him a preeminent right to have his views considered thoughtfully.

However, I must take exception to his postion as follows:

1. Dr. McLeod deplores the use of "pressures" and pleads with the mayor to ignore them. Surely he knows that so-called "pressures" are a perfectly proper expression of opinion and indeed are of the very essence of politics. The good doctor himself, by his letter, is exerting and urging "pressure," quite legitimately of course.

2. Dr. McLeod practically states that he has one specific man in mind to be his sucessor. Further his opinion seems to be that only one fully-qualified man is available. It is an open secret that one of the prominent candidates for Dr. McLeod's chair on the Board of Education is somewhat closely associated with the retiring doctor.

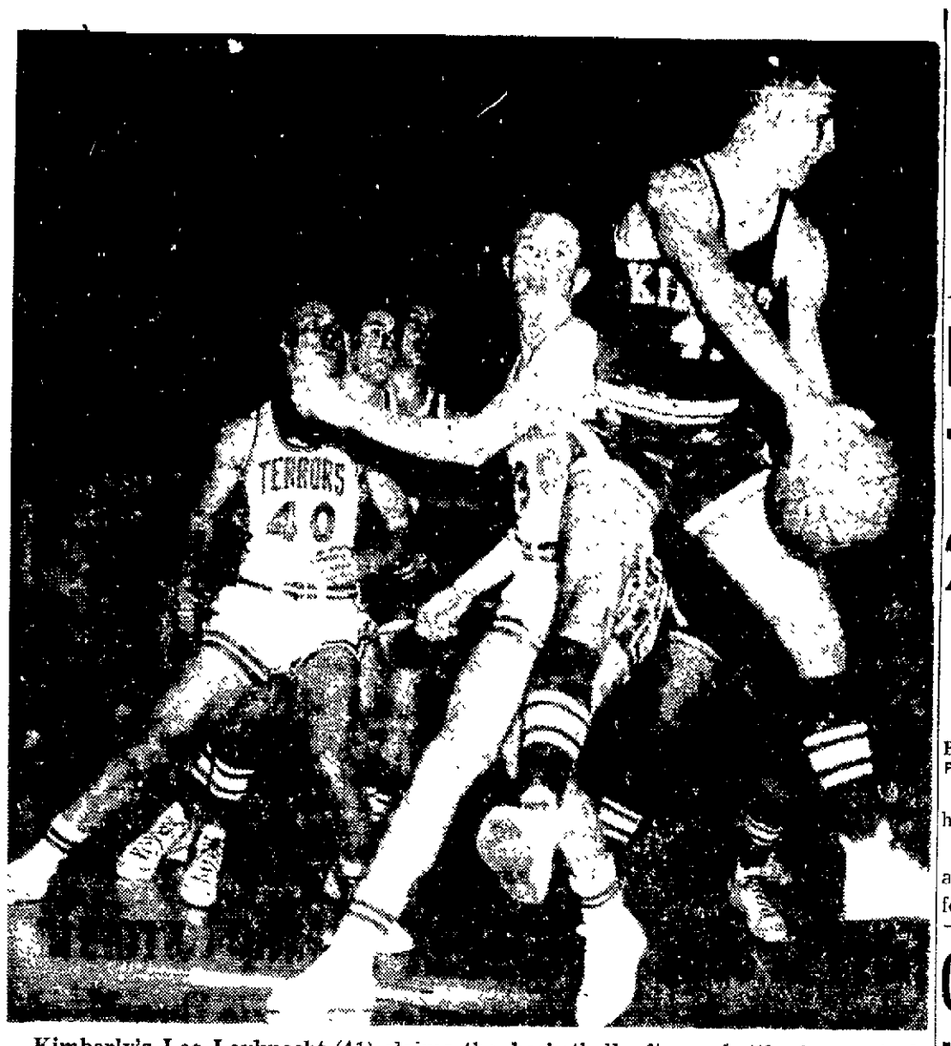

Putting two and two together it appears obvious that Dr. McLeod's letter is calculated to move the mayor to appoint his associate. Again this is quite legitimate, but at the same time quite inconsistent with the doctor's decrying of "pressures."

By all means every parent—nay, every citizen—ought "to call or write the mayor and insist that he ignore any factor other than what is best for the education of our children. Do it now." (Quote from Dr. McLeod's letter.)

Richard Edge

Ships Sink 51.7 Per Cent of Field Shots to Down Jays

Tall Invaders Score 77-57 Cage Victory

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA—Manitowoc coined 51.7 per cent of its field goal attempts and dominated both backboards to topple Menasha, 77-57, in the initial game for both clubs here Friday night.

The Bluejays, who entertain West De Pere tonight, connected for 25 points in the last quarter but they had too much of a deficit to make up and besides the Shipbuilders checked in with 23 of their own.

Unofficial statistics show that the visitors canned 33 field goals in 64 attempts. After making six of 19 in the first period, they hooped 10 of 15 in the second, nine of 14 in the third and closed with eight of 16 in the final segment. The Jays, meanwhile, made only 28 per cent of their attempts on 21 of 74. They only collected 11 of 50 in the first three quarters.

With Greg Sands and Bob Duvall, a pair of 6-4 boys, and 6-2 John Lallensack grabbing the rebounds, the Jays seldom had more than one shot at the basket most of the way. They resorted to a running game in the second half with a certain degree of success in the final period.

Jays Lose Lead

The Bluejays had 5-2 and 7-5 leads in the first period and after the score was tied 9-9 and 11-11 Manitowoc hit the last four points of the frame and the first three of the second and never trailed again.

Scoring 10 of the last 14 points of the half, the Ships rolled to a 36-23 intermission lead.

At one juncture in the third quarter, the difference was 24 points and the score was 54-32 at its conclusion.

Trailing, 60-34, early in the last frame, Menasha began a comeback which trimmed the lead to 17 points at 62-45. The winners boosted their edge to 21 at 70-49 but six straight points by Phil

Packers Mysteriously Missing From Betting Boards in New York

Heavy Wagering On Green Bay Continues Elsewhere

BY ALFRED G. ARONOWITZ
Post-Crescent News Service

NEW YORK — To the 65,000 inhabitants of Green Bay, the Packers, of course, are something priceless. The question is "Why can't anybody get a price on them in New York?"

In Los Angeles, putting a bet down on Vincent Lombardi's new race of supermen is as easy as finding a bookmaker. In Las Vegas, all it takes is money. In Green Bay, the bettors have been raking in their winnings with the same consistency that the Packers have been raking up the football field. But as far as New York's bookies are concerned, the team isn't even in the league, even though the team happens to lead it.

The Packers, in fact, have been off the city's betting boards since Oct. 8, and nobody's laying any odds when they'll return. Nobody's giving any explanation for their absence, either.

'A Losing Proposition'

"Sure, we carry a line on Green Bay," one of the city's merchants of chance told the Post. "But it isn't a betting line. Of course, we'll make some private accommodation for a good customer. If you're a $500 bettor, maybe we'll let you have $200, just as a favor. But the idea is we have to watch out for sharpies. Otherwise, Green Bay is a losing proposition."

With nine National Football League victories to their credit, the unbeaten — and unlikely to be beaten — Packers seem to be anything but a losing proposition. Even League Commissioner "Pete" Rozelle, although not a betting man himself, professes to be mystified by New York's discrimination against Green Bay.

"We've been following the betting lines very closely," said Rozelle, continuing a practice established by his predecessor, the late Bert Bell, who used to check on the point spreads throughout the country right up until kickoff time.

"We have the same investigator that Bert Bell did. In fact, we even have more. Whenever a game goes off the boards, I want to know why. With Green Bay, they've been on some lines and off others.

"I was very concerned about it at first, although I wouldn't want

East DePere Stops Chuter Quint, 63-39

BY ED VAN BERKEL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE — After permitting St. John High School cagers to score the first basket of the game here Friday night, the East DePere Redbirds took command and marched to a 63-39 opening non-conference win.

The Dutchmen were obviously still feeling the effects of the long football season, as none were able to hit the basket consistently. The Redbirds also missed many shots, but rallied in the late stages to win going away.

Play was slow in the first period with the score 15-8 in favor of DePere at the end of the quarter. Three quick baskets by diminuitive Dennis McCormack in the closing minutes of the quarter pulled DePere in front as the Dutchmen managed to pull to within a point 9-8 with less than two minutes remaining.

The winners ran into a cold spell for the first four minutes of the second frame, failing to score a point while St. John rang up six to again pull to within a point. DePere then began to connect, Fred Rauch, McCormack and Tyler McCormack leading the rush as the Redbirds connected for 10 points and a 25-17 halftime advantage.

The losers hit the cold streak in the opening of the second half, failing to score for the first four minutes of the period while DePere moved to a 30-17 advantage. Gib Hietpas and Bruce Hammen led a rally in the closing half of the period, but the winners managed to hold a comfortable 39-28 lead going into the final period.

The teams matched goals for the first half of the final period, but with the score at 47-36, the winners started to rally and ran away with the contest. Hietpas, tall center for the Dutchmen, fouled out midway through the period taking away practically all rebounding strength for the losers.

Little Chute had shooting trouble from the foul line too, connecting on seven of 20 attempts while the winners made good on 15 of 22 tries. Fred Danen was top point man for the winners with 18 points while Hammen topped the Chuters with 13.

Freedom Gains 42-41 Win Over Fox Lutheran

Krahn, Bowers Pace Victory in Season Opener

FREEDOM — The Freedom Irish overcame a slight three-quarter lag, pulled ahead of the Fox Valley Lutheran Foxes with 4:44 remaining and edged them, 42-41, in the season opener here Friday night.

Freedom checked the fast break of the Foxes, who counted heavily on the free throw line. FVL scored 15 of 20 bonus shots and 18 field goals. Freedom made only six of 13 free throws but hit 18 baskets from the floor.

The Foxes' Verlyn Dobberstein was held to one field goal in the first half and two in the remainder. However, Dobberstein managed to hit eight times from the free-throw line, giving him 14 points.

John Koschmann scored nine for the losers.

Dave Krahn and Glen Bowers paced the winners with 11 points each. Krahn hit four baskets and three from the free throw line. Bowers scored five field goals and one free throw.

Freedom maintained a tight press throughout the match. The Foxes countered with a zone defense.

Papermakers Edge Terrors, 67-63, in 2-Overtime Thriller

Kimberly Erases 10-Point Deficit In Last 4:38 of Fourth Period

BY RALPH MUELLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

That wild hysteria known as high school basketball is here.

It was ushered in Friday night as the Kimberly Papermakers defeated the Appleton Terrors, 67-63, with two rallies, before a screaming capacity crowd at the Appleton High School Gym.

It took two overtime periods to decide the issue with John DeWildt tipping in the basket that sent the Papermakers ahead to stay with only 1.13 remaining in the second extra stanza. A minute later, DeWildt put the game in the proverbial ice box with a pair of free throws.

Appleton had as much as a 10-point lead in the contest with as little as 4 38 to play, but the Papermaker rebounding power proved too much for the Terrors to cope with. Unofficial figures revealed Kimberly captured a fabulous total of 74 rebounds.

That rebounding was led by Wes Vander Velden, who pulled down 21. Lee Levknecht and DeWildt also controlled their share.

On Their Way

A long shot by Jim Rennebohm set the Papermakers on their way. The lengthy field goal made the score 52-4 , Appleton, with 4:26 to play in the regulation game.

Levknecht cut the margin to six points and Dennis Kroner put in a behind-the-back layup with 3.26 to go. "Chip" Taggart tallied for Appleton but the 6-4 Vander Velden came on with two straight baskets to narrow the margin to 54-52.

Kimberly regained the ball quickly and worked it around for more than a half-minute while Coach Dave Genzmen tried to get their attention to call a timeout. He finally succeeded, and seconds later Levknecht's basket tied the score and the first overtime followed.

Mark Vandehey opened the scoring for Kimberly in the extra period but Jim Swanson and Paul Schumacher connected for Appleton. Vandehey tied the count, at 58 all, with 1:06 to play.

The Terrors appeared to have the game wrapped up when Gary Hietpas connected with :13 to play but DeWildt gave an indication of

Colts Depend More Heavily On Running

Lineup Changes Have Helped In Recent Games

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Colts a running team?

It's hard to imagine after remembering some of Johnny Unitas' passes on third down and short yardage and even on fourth down.

But there is growing evidence that general John is relying more on the ground game despite such receiving experts as Johnny Orr, Raymond Berry, R. C. Owens, Dee Mackey and, of course, the reversible Lenny Moore who is now a running back.

The present Colts are averaging 29 passes attempts a game, and that is a reduction from past years. They averaged 31 2 passes per game in 1961, 32 6 in 1960; 31 2 in 1959; and 29 5 in 1958.

Ball Control

The Colts apparently are leaning considerable on ball control rather than the explosive pass.

Baltimore has run off more plays than any other team in the nine games, including 261 passes and 314 rushes. Pittsburgh is next with 573, including 385 rushes. Green Bay follows with 556 plays, including 354 rushes.

The Colts' offense, held to two field goals by the Packers three weeks ago, has snapped back with six TDs in the last two games.

Another "change" is the return of Moore to the lineup after his crippling knee injury. Lenny has carried 54 times in the past three games for 200 yards and an average of 4 1.

Third, "Alley Oop" Owens will start at left end in place of Berry. R. C. didn't play vs. the Bears and Packers in earlier games, but he started against his former teammates in San Francisco and did so well he got the nod for the Los Angeles game.

Giles Says Sale Of Braves Will Be Good for Club

CINCINNATI (AP) — President Warren Giles of the National League said Friday night he believes the sale of the Milwaukee Braves to a group of Wisconsin investors will be good for the club.

"I talked with Lou Perini and Bill Bartholomay earlier" Giles said, "and I am confident this will be a stimulant to baseball interest in Milwaukee.

"I do not know all the men involved but I know some of them by reputation and I know Lou Perini would not sell baseball interests to anyone who would not be a credit to our league.

"I am glad Lou Perini is retaining an identity with the club."

Wisconsin Rapids '5' Tips St. Mary, 65-49

Assumption Squad Makes Good Use Of Height Edge

WISCONSIN RAPIDS—St. Mary was forced to battle too much height, lost four men on fouls and went down to a 65-49 defeat at the hands of Wisconsin Rapids Assumption here Friday night.

The Royals had boys 6-4, 6-3 and 6-2 under the basket and their smallest boy Bill Reitz, at 5-10, was only two inches shorter than John Timm, who at 6-0, is St Mary's tallest. As a result the Menashans had to rely on aggressiveness and it resulted in their being charged with 30 fouls.

The Zephyrs had a fairly good first half, canning 12 of 25 field goal attempts. They trailed 17-16 at the end of the first quarter and were ahead 24-20 early in the second. Assumption tied the score at 24-all, the lead see-sawed back and forth but just before the horn, John Mrochek's basket have the hosts a 38-33 halftime lead.

3-Point Spread

Tom Johnson cut the spread to three points with his field goal at the start of the third period but Assumption moved into a 43-35 lead midway in the segment and was ahead 49-40 at its conclusion. It began to pull away in the final period as the Zephyrs could only manage nine points, giving them an unpressive 16 for the entire second half.

Timm fouled out with 5 30 left in the third period, Gene Patzner departed with 6:07 remaining in the fourth, Ken Jahnke was whistled out with 4 16 left to play and Steve Schmidt picked up his fifth foul with 1:01 remaining. What had hurt was that Schmidt and Timm had four fouls and Jahnke three in the first half.

18 Fielders Apiece

Dave LaVaque paced the Royals with 19 points, nine on free throws. Reitz had 10 points. Johnson led St. Mary with 11, Patzner added 10 and Schmidt scored eight.

Both teams made 18 field goals but Assumption had 44 free throw attempts, dropping in 29. St. Mary made 13 of 29. From the floor, the Zephyrs shot 35.3 per cent on 18 of 51 and Assumption 34.6 with 18 baskets in 52 tries.

Rapids won the jayvee game 52-34 as Jerry Ghiloni scored 23 points. Kim Vanderhyden's 10 led St. Mary.

Perini Sells 90 Per Cent Of Assets

BY DAVE O'HARA

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A syndicate of six midwest business executives and Milwaukee Braves President John McHale assumed the job of rebuilding the club's sagging fortunes today after purchasing control of the National League team from long-time owner Lou Perini.

Perini, a 59-year-old construction magnate with headquarters near the Braves' old home in Boston, announced sale of 90 per cent of the club's assets for $5.5 million Friday to the group of "vital, imaginative young men."

Perini, who startled the baseball world by moving the Braves to Milwaukee shortly before the start of the 1953 season, surprised most observers with his announcement at a hastily-called news conference for which he arrived more than 20 minutes late.

Rather than break away from the game entirely, however, Perini said that his Perini Corp. will retain a 10 per cent interest in the club and he will remain as Chairman of the Executive Committee and as a member of the Board of Directors.

White Sox Director

The syndicate of new owners is headed by two former directors of the Chicago White Sox, William C. Bartholomay, 34, of Lake Forest, Ill., and Lake Geneva, Wis., and Thomas A. Reynolds Jr., 34, of Northfield, Ill. Bartholomay is a Chicago insurance broker and Reynolds is a partner in a Chicago business firm.

McHale, 41, Perini's choice to become general manager in 1959 and then to assume the additional responsibility of president last year, will remain in both positions as well as being a co-owner.

Other members of the new group are John J. Louis Jr., 37, of Phoenix, Ariz., and Cable, Wis.; Daniel C. Searle, 36, a Winnetka, Ill., business executive; James B. McCahey Jr., 41, a fuel company executive from Evanston, Ill., and Delbert W. Coleman, 36, of Winnetka, a prominent investment executive.

Bartholomay and Reynolds said that the success of the Milwaukee franchise "depends substantially on the loyal support of local organizations" and "we will include in the ownership group other civic minded fans from Wisconsin whose names will be announced soon."

The new owners assume control at a time when the Braves' fortunes are at their lowest ebb since

Neenah '5' Thwarts Fondy's Upset Bid

Rockets Break 55-55 Tie With Streak of 8 Straight Points

FOND DU LAC — Neenah broke a 55-55 tie with a string of eight straight points in the final period and went on to upend an upset-minded Fond du Lac quintet 73-61 here Friday night.

The Rockets, who visit Wisconsin Rapids tonight, and the Cardinals played on even terms in the first two periods, each scoring 16 points in the first and 15 in the second for a 31-all halftime deadlock.

With the score tied 37-37 in the third segment little Gene Loughrin tallied a basket and Dick Rogness made a free throw and added two points on a drive in to open up a 42-37 Neenah lead. The visitors owned a 51-45 advantage going into the final frame.

Neenah led 55-53, with about 5:30 left in the game, when Fondy's Dick Richter tied the score, but Dave Neubauer went to work and hit on a basket and added a free throw for a 58-55 Rocket advantage.

Harold Thomas connected on a jump shot, Neubauer hit from the outside and added a gifter for the eighth straight point and a 63-55 score.

Take 10-Point Lead

The teams traded fielders and Fond du Lac's Dick Burdett scored from the side for a 65-59 tally but Rogness gave the Twin Citians a 10-point lead with a basket and two free throws. Burdett scored the last two points for the Cardinals and Neubauer dropped in the final four for Neenah.

Rocket scoring honors went to Rogness with 22 points on eight baskets and six free throws. Neubauer scored 17 and Dick Kuehl had 16. Rogness made seven points in the first quarter, eight in the second and six in the fourth. Kuehl had four field goals in the initial stanza and three in the third. Loughrin also had three buckets in period No 3.

Burdett topped Fondy with 21 points on nine baskets and only three free throw successes in 10 tries. Richter checked in with 13 points and Mike Mies made 11.

The Rockets made a complete sweep by copping the jayvee game 44-39. Dave Koehn and Mike Casey had 12 and 10 points, respectively, for the winners. Bill Yost led the Cardinals with 16.

Steelers Battle Redskins Sunday

Lions Meet Minnesota and New York Duels Philadelphia

BY DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers, probably in danger of losing a game one of these seasons, may have Paul Hornung back for fulltime duty Sunday to lend assistance to an attack that hasn't missed him a bit.

While the versatile halfback-kicker was hampered, the Packers' Vince Lombardi was able to call on only three or four capable replacements who ran and occasionally passed like new Hornungs if not like Hornung himself.

Now Paul, the National Football League's Most Valuable Player last season, comes back after a month of leg trouble in a kind of rich-get-richer situation to beef up a Packer squad that has only won all nine of its games, ranks first in total offense and total defense, has scored more points than anyone else in the league and — to overcome these shortcomings—owns the hardest to score against defensive unit.

For once, the Packers may need him since the defending NFL champs face the Baltimore Colts, who held them to a 17-6 margin the last time the two met. The game at Green Bay, feature of another seven-game Sunday in the NFL, opens probably the toughest stretch the mighty Packers will face until the championship game itself at the end of the season.

Back in Shape

The Colts, although they have only a 5-4 record, have Lenny Moore back in shape to take some of the pressure off passer Johnny Unitas and have an improved defense that hasn't permitted a touchdown in the last two games. They should give the Western Division leaders more of a test than the Eastern leaders, the New York Giants, face from their opponent at Yankee Stadium — the Philadelphia Eagles.

Philadelphia, the flop of the NFL season, has won only one, lost seven and tied one and moves against the pass-happy Giants still reeling from last week's 49-0 loss to Green Bay. The Giants' Y. A. Tittle has passed for more than 1,000 yards and 13 touchdowns in the last three games in taking over the No. 1 spot among the league aerialists.

In other games, the Western runner-up Lions (7-2) are at Minnesota (2-7) with one eye cocked to the Green Bay scoreboard; the Chicago Bears (5-4) are at Dallas (4-4-1), San Francisco (3-6) at Los Angeles (1-8), Eastern runnerup Washington (5-2-2) at Pittsburgh (5-4) and St. Louis (2-6-1) at Cleveland (4-4-1).

For the Lions, Redskins and Steelers this is "if" week. If the Colts can upset the Packers, and the Lions can beat Minnesota, the Lions can go into the Thanksgiving Day game with a chance to pull into a tie for the Western Conference lead.

For the Redskins this first of two games with Pittsburgh is all-important if they are to challenge or overhaul the Giants for the Eastern pennant. It's just as important for Pittsburgh, which trails New York by two games with five left and can't afford to lose again.

Perini Sells Braves to Syndicate

their final season in Boston in 1952. They drew more than one million fans in each of their first nine years in Milwaukee, reaching a high of 2,215,504 for 73 home dates in 1957.

The club dropped to fifth place this past season and attendance dipped to 767,221 despite an expanded schedule in a 10-team league. It now is in the process of negotiating a new contract for the county-owned Stadium, which is not involved in the sale of the team's assets.

Perini said that in some 20 years as owner of the Braves he had received "many offers for the club." He noted that he had said many times the club was not for sale, but that he now feels "a good deal more can be accomplished by new ownership."

Young People

"Baseball needs young people," he said. "It is a vital game and needs vitality. However, I want to add that I wouldn't have considered these gentlemen if I even thought they didn't have the financial means to succeed."

Perini said that he is "very indebted to baseball" and he was "very cautious in selecting my heir apparent."

"We never expected to sell," he added. "However, the members of our corporate family, particularly myself, have found it more and more difficult to participate as fully as we would like in the affairs of the club, and to give Braves President John McHale the on-the-spot backing he deserves.

"When we were approached by this outstanding group of sportsmen who have just purchased the Braves, it afforded us the opportunity to turn over the major responsibility to owners who live nearby.

"The Braves are in good hands. These are vital, imaginative young men with baseball ownership experience who will add much to baseball's leadership."

Bartholomay said that his group purchased the Milwaukee team after only nine days of negotiations. It was reported he acted after Perini had received an offer of $4.5 million from another group.

Bartholomay and Reynolds called the Milwaukee franchise "the best in baseball" and noted the club's accomplishment of two pennants, a World Series victory and a continuous record of first division finishes in the past 10 years."

Noting that Perini has "championed" baseball in Milwaukee, the syndicate's top spokesman said "we only hope that we can build on his efforts."

He added "we will do everything possible to continue and exceed the record the Milwaukee Braves have achieved in the past decade."

Hickey Benches Mertens, Dove

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Coach Red Hickey shook up his San Francisco 49er line-up again Friday as the club prepared to meet the Rams in Los Angeles Sunday.

Defensive halfbacks Jerry Mertens and Eddie Dove were benched with Elbert Kimbrough and Dale Messer getting the starting assignments.

Ted Connolly, guard on offense, was returned to a starting job. He was replaced in the starting line-up last week by rookie Leon Donohue, who moves into a tackle spot this time. Karl Rubke starts at center with Bruce Bosley hampered by a heel injury.

JERSEY CITY, N.J. — Bout between lightweights Tommy Nathercott, White Plains, N.Y. and Carlos Quiles, New York, canceled.

Oilers Meet Patriots in Key AFL Tilt

Blanda-Parilli Passing Duel In Prospect

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Houston Oilers are hoping history repeats Sunday in the American Football League.

Just a year ago, the Boston Patriots sailed into Houston for a showdown game. The Oilers won it, 27-15, and that proved to be the difference in the Eastern Division race. Neither team lost another game.

Now Boston (6-2-1) head for Houston (6-3) again, already boasting one victory this season over the Oilers, with a half-game lead. Again, it could be the decisive contest for the divisional title.

The race in the Western Division is just as close with the Dallas Texans (7-2) leading the Denver Broncos (7-3), also by a slim half-game. And who do the Texans run into Sunday? The Broncos, the biggest surprise of the league this year. This one, too, could decide the winner in the division.

Both Televised

Both games will be televised by ABC. The Boston-Houston contest will go to the eastern section of the country and the Dallas-Denver battle to the western.

The only other scheduled game Sunday sends the Buffalo Bills (4-5-1) against the winless Oakland Raiders at Oakland. The Raiders have lost 15 straight regular-season games in a streak dating back to last season.

Boston has two things going for it—the toughest all-around defense in the league and the passing arm of Babe Parilli.

Parilli, the league's No.2 passer, has tossed for 17 touchdowns. Aiding him are Ron Burton and Larry Garron, who handle the running chores.

Houston's attack is pass-heavy with George Blanda doing most of the elbow work. Blanda also has connected for 17 touchdowns. Charlie Tolar will handle the running department. If the Patriots do have any weak point, it is their defense against passing. So Blanda will be in for a busy day.

The Dallas-Denver game will pit the league's No. 1 passer against the league's toughest pass defense. Len Dawson of Dallas leads the loop in pitching. The Broncos have been more successful than any other team in stifling aerial offensives.

Dawson has completed 61.6 per cent of his passes for 1,925 yards. He has tossed 21 for touchdowns.

The Broncos will depend on the strong arm of Frank Tripucka, who has hit for 15 touchdowns. He also has the league's leading receiver, Lionel Taylor. Donnie Stone and Gene Mingo, just off the injured list, will handle the running.

Former Major League Baseball Player Dies

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP)—R. C. (Dick) Hoblitzell, former major league baseball player and club manager, died Wednesday in a Parkersburg Hospital where he had been a patient for two weeks. He was 74.

GAME UNALARMED BY FROZEN HUNTER

WHEN CAUGHT IN THE OPEN, "FREEZE" UNTIL GAME COMES INTO RANGE.

I HAVE HAD DUCKS FLY DIRECTLY OVERHEAD AND DEER PASS WITHIN TEN YARDS BY JUST REMAINING STILL AS THEY APPROACHED.

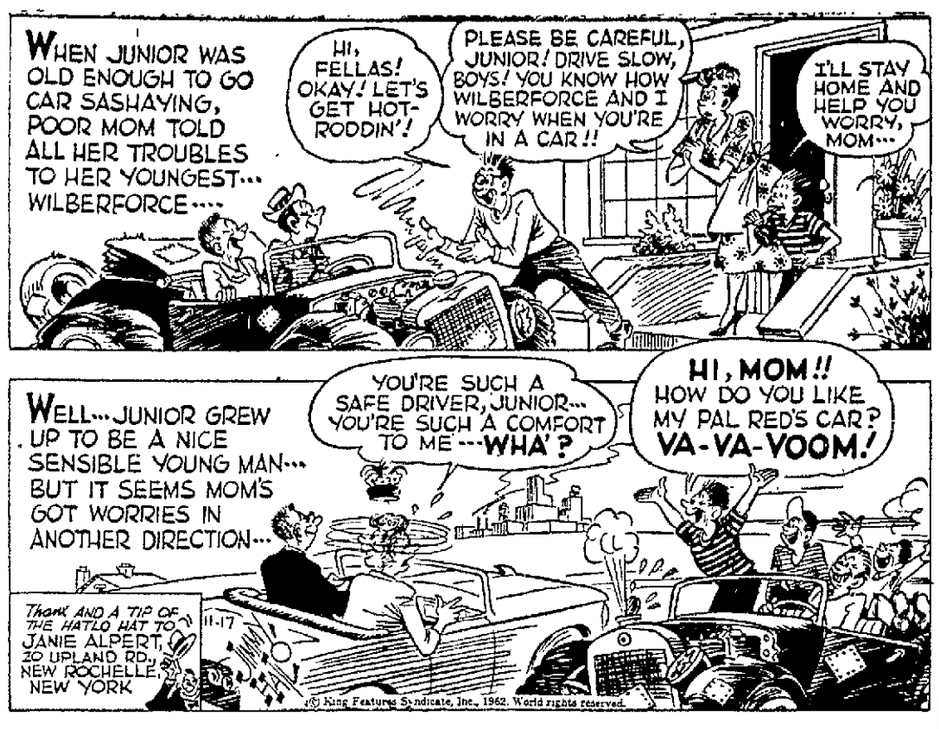

MOST GAME IS NOT ALARMED BY AN INACTIVE FIGURE—UNLESS DANGER IS SCENTED.

SOME DUCK HUNTERS SIT IN FRONT OF A "BLIND" WHICH MAY BE A ROCK PILE THEIR CLOTHING BLENDS WITH.

STANDING HUNTERS MAY HAVE JUST A TREE TRUNK BEHIND THEM WHILE AWAITING DEER TO PASS. IF NOTHING ELSE, "FREEZE" LIKE A TREE TRUNK WHEN YOU HEAR GAME COMING.

Antigo '5' Beats Truckers, 61-56

Webster Leads With 24 Points; Bodoh Hits 15 for Clints

ANTIGO — The long-range accuracy of Antigo's Stan Webster proved sufficient to ward off a gallant second-half effort by the Clintonville Truckers here Friday night as Antigo posted a 61-56 non-conference victory.

Antigo jumped off to a 13-9 lead at the first period and increased the margin to 30-22 at the intermission.

With Dennis Bodoh, Bill Melzer and Jerry Sheperd leading the way, the Truckers cut the deficit to three points, 46-43, at the three-quarter mark.

Melzer, a stalwart in the Clintonville attack, fouled out near the end of the third period but the Truckers still managed to keep pace, exchanging bucket - for bucket throughout the closing period.

Webster's consistency from far out enabled Antigo to maintain 4-point leads of 50-46, 56-52 and 60-56. He closed out the evening with 12 baskets to capture game scoring honors.

Bodoh paced Clintonville with 15 points followed by Melzer and Sheperd with 10 each.

The winners hit for 38 per cent from the field, while the Truckers converted 36 per cent. Each team missed six free throws.

Russia Trades Zabeg for 3 U. S. Horses

Purple Peril and 2 Yearlings Go To Soviet Union

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Officials of the Russian Embassy and Laurel race course planned today to arrange for shipment of three American-bred horses to the Soviet Union.

The Russian government obtained the thoroughbreds Friday in a swap with Mrs. Cloyce Tippett, one of America's renowned sportswomen, for Zabeg, a three-time starter in the Washington, D.C. International.

The swap was the first involving Russian and American thoroughbreds.

A spokesman at Laurel said arrangements would be made today to fly the horses to Berlin. From there, they would be transported to the Soviet Union. He said the horses probably would not leave the United States before the middle of next week.

Zabeg, now a 5-year-old, finished third in the 1960 International and fourth in 1961 and last Monday.

In return for the black son of Baltik Baron-Zerkalnaia, the Russians will receive Purple Peril, a 3-year-old colt, and two yearlings.

The three American horses were brought here from the Lian gollen Farm at Upperville, Va., operated by Mrs. Tippett. The 4,000-acre farm has produced such topflight race horses as Mister Gus—sire of Purple Peril—Porterhouse and Social Climber.

Chamberlain Hits 73 Points

Leads Warriors To 127-111 Win Over New York

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It doesn't seem possible, but San Francisco's Wilt Chamberlain just keeps on getting better in the National Basketball Association.

The Big Dipper shoved in 73 points in the Warriors' 127-111 victory over New York Friday night, setting a Madison Square Garden scoring record.

And, while the output wasn't close to his league record high of 100, it did push his average for the season to a staggering 53.5 points a game.

Then, too, it wasn't so much the output as the manner in which he achieved the total that was impressive. Many of the points came on his favorite fade-away shot, in which he flips a one-hander, almost like a baseball throw, while he's falling away from the basket. He was hitting it consistently from a greater distance than he usually attempts it.

'Wouldn't Let Me In'

"They wouldn't let me in under the basket," Wilt shrugged, "so I had to go outside. That's all."

Syracuse out-lasted Boston 113-105 and replaced the Celtics atop the Eastern Division standings while Cincinnati beat St. Louis, the Western leaders, 120-111 in the other NBA games.

The 73 points wiped out the Garden record of 71 points set by Los Angeles' Elgin Baylor.

The total was the fourth highest of Chamberlain's NBA career. He has had previous highs of 74, 78 and 100. He got his 73 on 29 of 43 field goal attempts and 15 of 19 free throw tries, including 14 in a row. By quarters, his scoring was 17-11-20-25.

Bianchi Paces Nats

At Syracuse, Al Bianchi came off the bench and paced a second-quarter drive that pulled the Nats from behind.

With Boston leading 41-36, Bianchi hit five straight points to tie it and his three-pointer just before intermission gave the Nats a lead they held the rest of the way.

Boston's Tommy Heinsohn led all scorers with 27 points, while Hal Greer had 25 for Syracuse.

Cincinnati had to fight off a last-quarter St. Louis drive that closed to within two points, 98-96. Wayne Embry, Jack Twyman and Oscar Robertson then combined for 16 Cincinnati points and the Royals were out of trouble. Twyman topped the scorers with 27 points.

Pat Senning, Hobbs Lead Bowling Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — L. Clyde Hobbs, 26, of Minneapolis and Pat Senning, 30, of Chicago led today as the sixth annual World's Invitational Bowling Tournament moved into its second day.

Hobbs took a seven-pin lead in the field of 128 men with a six-game total of 1,351, an average of 225.

Miss Senning, a bookkeeper at Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago, bowled an 865 total for four games, a 19-pin lead over her closest contender.

Harry Smith of St. Louis was second in the men's division with a 1,344 series and his teammate, Glenn Allison of St. Louis was third with 1,343.

Defending men's champion, Don Carter of St. Louis, although not required to qualify, was tied for 34th with 1,251. He notched a 267 on his last game.

Donna Zimmerman of Akron rolled a 846 for second place. Merle Mathews, the 1958 all-star champion from Long Beach, Calif., was third with 789.

The high games for the first day of the 10-day tournament were Miss Senning's 257 and a 270 effort by Al Savas of St. Louis.

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League activated Buddy Humphrey from the taxi squad Friday to replace the injured Eddie LeBaron at quarterback for Sunday's game with the Chicago Bears here.

The Cowboys also put Warren Livingston, defensive halfback, on waivers.

Chances for Clay-Patterson Match Appear to be Good

NEW YORK (AP)—While Cassius Clay talks of taking on Sonny Liston for the world's heavyweight championship, the chances appeared good Friday night that he first might be pushed into a fight with ex-title holder Floyd Patterson.

The 20-year-old Cassius stopped Archie Moore in the fourth round of their scheduled 12-rounder in Los Angeles Thursday night and immediately began talking of getting in the ring with Liston.

But first Harry Markson, general manager of the Madison Square Garden Boxing Club, would like to match Clay with Patterson in January.

"I know Patterson has a return bout contract with Liston," said Markson. "But I'm sure Floyd realizes that because of his first round knockout by Liston, there will be little interest in their return unless he does something to restore public confidence in his fighting ability."

The way Markson sees it, the winner could meet Liston in the Yankee Stadium in June—if Sonny can get a license to fight in New York. He is barred here because of his police record.

Would Patterson's taking a bout with Clay be deemed a breach of contract by the Liston camp?

"I don't think so," said Markson. "Unquestionably, Liston would prefer to defend against the Patterson-Clay winner than an untested Patterson.

"After all, Liston's defense against either winner would draw much more money than against an unproven Patterson. Besides, the whole thing could be straightened out with a new contract."

Oshkosh Defeats West Bend, 77-61

Beck and Stroede Combine for 38 Points in Season Opener

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — The Oshkosh Indians shook off opening minute jitters to forge past West Bend, 77-61, in a season opener that was marked by spotty play by both teams.

Roger Beck and Tom Stroede, the only two returning lettermen for coach Don Erickson, led the way for the Indians with 20 and 18 points, respectively.

Oshkosh faces the Kimberly Papermakers at Kimberly tonight.

As was the case last year, Oshkosh got balanced scoring as all five starters hit in the double figures. Greg Wood and Miles Strasser each scored 11 points and Bill Steinhilber scored 10.

Bruce Calpwell and Butch Buddenhagen scored 15 and 14 points, respectively, to lead a West Bend team that could not quite match Oshkosh's speed and rebounding.

The Indians slipped ahead of the Badgers late in the first period and were never in any serious danger. At the quarter the margin was six points and at halftime it was 13, 41-28.

Trails by 23

At one point, late in the third quarter, the Little Ten team trailed by 23 points. Erickson used the big lead as an opportunity to get a good look at his reserves.

Both Stroede and Beck appeared in mid-season form and both sat out most of the fourth quarter. Stroede scored seven of his 18 points in the first quarter.

Steinhilber and Wood appear to have nailed down the two backcourt jobs while Strasser and Dave Reamer alternated at the one forward spot. Strasser, who started the contest, scored nine of his 11 points in the final period.

The Oshkosh junior varsity won 46-32.

A desperation shot by Gary Hietpas, half the length of the floor, was narrowly missed in those last two seconds.

Brian Bock's free throw gave Appleton a 61-60 lead in the second overtime but Levknecht made it 62-61 in favor of Kimberly. Appleton had the lead for the last time on Hietpas' fielder with 1:44 to play. DeWildt's heroics were to follow.

He put Kimberly ahead, 64-63. Kroner added a charity toss before DeWildt clinched the outcome.

The two teams nearly matched the 1959 battle when the Papermakers chalked up a 1-point victory on a round of free throws following two overtimes.

The Papermakers shot at pretty steady 33.7 per cent throughout the contest. They made 26 buckets on 77 shots.

Appleton blazed away at a 46.3 clip, making 25 of 54 attempts.

The free throw duel was a draw with Kimberly making 11 of 18 free throws while Appleton hit on 11 of 16.

California's Levy Signs New Contract

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Marv Levy, a personable young Phi Beta Kappa who won just four games in 28 attempts, will coach football at California for another two years.

University regents, looking more at Cal's promising youngsters than this season's 1-7 record, gave Levy a raise in pay to an estimated $15-20,000 and a two-year contract Friday just as dismissal rumors were growing.

Levy, a 37-year-old graduate of Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Harvard University, came here after only two years of head coaching experience at New Mexico. There he was 14-6.

Many alumni grumbled at hiring a relative unknown, but he salvaged a 2-7-1 first season by beating arch-rival Stanford. Cal was only 1-8-1 in 1961, yet knocked Washington out of the Rose Bowl and tied powerful Missouri.

But this year, the Bears so far beat only hapless San Jose State.

Proposed Televising Of Badger-Gopher Game Rejected

CHICAGO (AP) — A proposal that the Wisconsin-Minnesota football game replace the Michigan-Ohio State game on national television Nov. 24 was rejected Thursday by the Big Ten Conference.

Conference Commissioner Bill Reed said that he informed the Columbia Broadcasting System the conference could not approve the change, suggested by CBS.

The Wisconsin-Minnesota finale probably will be for the Big Ten championship. The Michigan-Ohio State game has no bearing on the title.

"Under existing NCAA policy, it is necessary to announce the TV schedule no later than Sept. 1" Reed said.

Packers Not On New York Betting Boards

you to infer th[illegible] I was panicked by it. But we've checked this out in almost every r[illegible] in the country, and although it's an unusual situation the only conclusion we can gather is because the Packers have an unusual team.

Tremendous Respect

"We haven't h[illegible] this in the league in year[illegible] — [illegible] one te[illegible] could win by two [illegible] scores in one season. Apparently, the bettors have [d]eveloped a tremendous respect for Green Bay. The superiority of the Packers has been shown to such a marked degree that the oddsmakers just can't set enough points against them."

Rozelle discounted the possibility that New York bookmakers stopped taking bets on the Packers becau[se of] their behavior during their muddied 9-7 victory over the Detroit Lions last Oct. 7 — even though that was the date when the city's bookies started saying no bet on Green Bay money.

In their win over the Lions, the Packers' otherwise unstoppable ground - gaining machine didn't cross the goal line once. Instead, Green Bay scored on three field goals, one of them kicked in the final seconds by Paul Hornung. Since the Packers had been a 7½ point favorite over Detroit, they won the game but lost on the points.

"I saw nothing suspicious in that game," said Rozelle. "Detroit has a pretty good defensive team and the field conditions were very bad. Green Bay had started out at the beginning of the week as a 10-point favorite on the basis of its 49-0 win over the Bears the week before.

Not Indicative

"But Detroit money hammered the points down to 7½ because a 49-0 win over a team as crippled as the Bears were was not indicative of the Packers' true superiority in that game.

"What happened was that there was a minute and a half to play and Detroit was winning, 7-6, but elected to pass for the first down instead of trying to run and use up time.

"It was supposed to be a hitch pass to Terry Barr, but when he tried to pivot, he slipped on the muddy field and the ball went right into Adderley's hands for an interception. He caught it on the Green Bay 42 and returned it to the Detroit 18.

"I see nothing suspicious in Detroit's decision to pass, and even if somebody thought it was suspicious, how could you blame Green Bay for it?

"Of course, the Lions in retrospect wish they hadn't thrown the pass, but it was a comparatively safe pass. So many coaches get burned in the final seconds that they don't like to sit on a lead. Another thing, Green Bay also has the best runback man in the league. You're not going to punt and put the ball up in the air if you can help it."

Rozelle said that a check by his agents showed that Green Bay has remained on the boards in such cities as Philadelphia, Milwaukee and Chicago. In some cases, he said, Green Bay doesn't go on the boards until later in the week but he attributed this to the continuing uncertainty of whether the injured Hornung would be in the Packers' lineup.

Having Trouble

In addition, he said, so much money was being wagered on Green Bay that bookies apparently are having trouble balancing the bets with money put up against the Packers.

"If the bookies set the points too high, for example," he said, "all it has to do is rain and they are wiped out."

Bet-takers in other parts of the country tended to agree with Rozelle's analysis. "The Packers have never left my board," Jimmy Snyder, a licensed Las Vegas bookmaker told the post. "They've been up every day and every game.

"If there was anything suspicious, if anything would have been wrong with the Green Bay Packers in any way, there would have been unnatural money. The unnatural money would have shown here in Vegas more than anywhere in the world. The price would have fluctuated by as much as five points if that happened.

"But there was never any unnatural money. Most of the money has been for Green Bay, and they won by the points in all but two games. I don't know why the Packers are off the boards in New York. That's their headache."

Butternut Coffee Tells of Annual Christmas Club

This Christmas morning over 31,000 homeless children will awake to find Santa has left them each their very own personal gifts . . . thanks to Santa's helper, the Butter-Nut Christmas Club.

This is the twenty-fifth year that the Christmas Club has been remembering children in institutions on Christmas — children who otherwise might have been forgotten.

This year, each and every boy and girl in almost 300 such homes — in the Midwest and Rocky Mountain states, in Southern California and part of Arizona — will receive a gift ranging from wagons, toy trucks and footballs to frilly, cuddly dolls and toy tea party sets. Tons of candies and nuts will be distributed to the homes as well.

Each year, millions of Butter-Nut Coffee drinkers save key strips and labels from Butter-Nut cans and jars. Thousands of grocers volunteer as collecting agents. Many hundreds of civic, social and church groups make a year-round project of collecting the Butter-Nut key strips and labels.

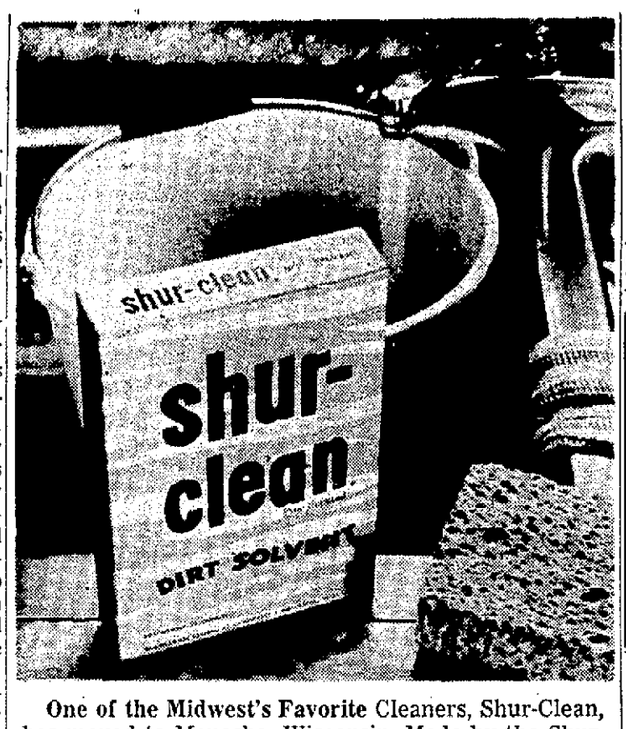

With the encouragement evidenced by the key strips and labels turned in by December 15th, the Christmas Club buys, packages and ships the gifts so all will be at the children's homes in time for a merry Christmas morning. The Appleton Post-Crescent will carry specially prepared ads, beginning in November.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state will erect 54 historical markers in the next three years at Civil War sites. The first, set up recently at Frankfort, commemorated the execution in 1864 of four Confederate prisoners in reprisal for the murder by guerrillas of a Union sympathizer.

Correction

The cost of replacing damaged panels in the Rolite Travel Trailer which was featured in an article on this page Saturday, Nov 10, was incorrect. In the event one of the Alcoa lifetime aluminum panels should be damaged through an accident, the panel can be quickly and easily replaced for as little as $5, points out Pure Oil Service at Valley Fair Shopping Center, Rolite dealer.

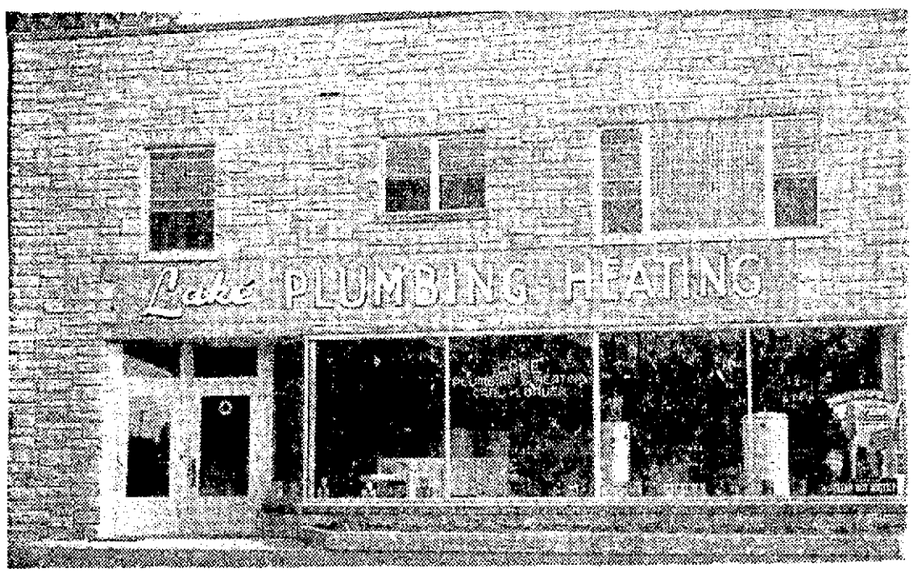

One of the Midwest's Favorite Cleaners, Shur-Clean, has moved to Menasha, Wisconsin. Made by the Shur-Clean Chemical company, the famous household and commercial cleaner is now sporting a new container, but is still the same, wonderful homemaker's friend that it ever was.

Shur-Clean cleanser has been made for over 20 years. Housewives in the middle west love this wonderful, sweet-smelling cleanser. It is easy on the hands but murder on those dirty walls and floors. It cleans almost anything and won't streak.

Mrs. R. I. Walter got a letter recently from a very young army wife in Fort Benning, Georgia. Her mother had always used Shur-Clean and she wanted to use it in her new little first home too. The Walters sent her a box of Shur-Clean in the return mail. It is family customers that pass on to their daughters the fine qualities of Shur-Clean.

Shur-Clean is presently sold to grocers through the following distributors: Zinke Company in Fond du Lac, and Wisconsin Distributing Company of Appleton and Oshkosh.

If you can't find Shur-Clean on your grocer's shelves, ask him to get some for you.

No more winter heating problems, says John Jenkel of Jenkel Oil Co., 1201 N. Badger Ave., distributors of Skelly products. Skelly furnace oil with SK-12 additive ends four main causes of furnace failure.

It keeps the nozzles clean. A pin-point particle of dirt can clog a nozzle. SK-12 does away with sludge, carbon and foreign residue that clog nozzles and vital furnace parts.

It keeps filters gum-free. Filters do their duty longer, better with new SK-12 guarding the system. It prevents dirty, gummed-up filters and keeps oil free from impurities.

It keeps fuel lines open by preventing rust and corrosion that could easily cause a major repair bill. It works from fuel tank to flame so your system operates at its most efficient.

Jenkel Oil Co., distributors of Skelly Furnace oil, will deliver promptly and with convenient metered service, a printed receipt from the meter on the truck to show accurate delivery of the customer's purchase. Jenkel will service your home or place of business with oil on demand or at regular intervals, whichever you prefer.

Police Confiscate 332 'Questionable' Books in Appleton

Periodicals Sold Under Counter Taken After Arrest of Man, 22

Police Thursday night confiscated 332 "questionable" periodicals which allegedly were being sold under the counter and in a back room from Jerry Pipe shop, 304 E. College Ave.

Police requested and were granted a search warrant Thursday afternoon by County Judge Gustave Keller. Most of the periodicals were picture books and were American editions of foreign publications. Police estimated the retail sale of books confiscated would have been $333.55.

According to Mrs. Gerald Schleis, owner of the shop, the books are placed in her store by the Appleton News Agency and she does not place orders for the books. She told police the procedure was "common practice."

About 50 magazines were found under a counter in the store, and police said at least three piles of "questionable magazines" were found in a back room.

Must be "Of Age"

Mrs. Schleis told police that persons desiring to purchase the magazines must prove they are "of age."

The search came after a Kaukauna man reported to Kaukauna police he had purchased several magazines at the store and had in turn sold them to three Kaukauna High School students.

The Kaukauna man told his story Wednesday when he was arraigned in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2, for taking indecent liberties with the three youths.

The Kaukauna man said he had heard about the store and went there to buy the books. He asked a clerk if there wasn't "something better in the back room," and was shown several magazines from under a counter. He bought several.

The same books were then confiscated from the students by Kaukauna High School teachers The incident was reported to Kaukauna police.

No Charges

Appleton police said there have been no charges filed against Mrs. Schleis but that she has agreed, through her attorney, Don Jury, to sell only magazines which a group of city policemen and Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer would determine should be distributed in the area.

The group is made up of Det. Carl Thiel, who investigated the complaint and confiscated the books, and Lt. Vilas Burmeister, juvenile aid officer. The two plan to meet with Schaefer Tuesday to study the situation.

Police Chief E. O. Wolff said he felt the matter could be cleared up and the proposed plan would eliminate the problem without charges being filed.

Jury said he has his client's assurance that she would comply with the group's list of magazines and that his client would file an affidavit stating so.

Mrs. Elaine Mears, 23, of Flushing, Long Island, N. Y., screams at cameramen as she is brought into Federal Building in Philadelphia, Penn., for hearing in an alleged attempt to rob a bank in Philadelphia Friday. Police said she walked into the bank and handed a note to the teller: "Hand over the money." The note said she carried a gun in her handbag. The teller handed the note to a bank guard who seized the young woman. She had no gun. U. S. Commissioner Edward Furia continued the hearing until the woman's husband arrives from New York. Menasha Benevolent Society To Consider Building Hall

MENASHA — Members of the Germania Benevolent Society will consider plans and financing of a new hall at their meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, according to President Walter Stommel.

"A majority vote of those members present is all that is necessary," President Stommel said. "Action can be taken if a quorum is present and this is made up of seven members."

The building committee has architectural plans ready to present for its membership approval. Chairman of the committee is Waldo Friedland. Serving with him are Ervin Jacobson, Harry Kosloske, Harold Berro, E. J. Rippl, Durward Lindquist and Walter Girard.

Plans for financing the new building, if approved, will be set out by the Germania Society trustees, Connie Rippl, Walter Bredendick and Lawrence Pontow.

The present Germania Hall, used not only by the society but by countless service and social groups throughout the year, had its official opening July 4, 1862. It is probable that the new building will be constructed at or near the present site, 320 Chute St.

Youths Admit Six Break-ins In Appleton

$1,300 in Equipment Netted by Trio at Schools, Warehouse

An 11-year-old youth, and two 14-year-old companions have admitted to Appleton police their parts in six break-ins which netted them over $1,300 in electrical equipment and power tools.

Five of the break-ins were reported Sunday, Monday and Tuesday to Appleton police and the other was reported Oct. 29, but was not associated with the three youths until they confessed to police they were responsible.

Break-ins included thefts at the Roosevelt Junior High School, the Jackson School annex, the Columbus School, St. Paul's School and the Mid-City Beverage Warehouse.

The October break-in was at a home under construction at Hancock and Drew streets which was reported by the builder, Everett Rooyakker, 208 S. Joseph St., Kimberly. A set of power tools, wrenches, hammers and drills were taken from the home. The youths also took six headsets from a telephone calling service at the Mid-City Beverage warehouse.

Entry to the four schools was made by breaking small panes of glass and opening the window. All three of the youths were not included in all the break-ins, police said, and the 11-year-old accompanied one of the 14-year-olds on only one break-in, but the 11-year-old did not actually take any material from the schools.

Two Identified

Police said two of the youths were identified carrying some equipment from one of the schools, and were questioned about the break-ins. Police said they found tape recorders, amplifiers and other equipment at the youths' homes. Much of the material was hidden in the youths' basements.

According to police, the youths' told their parents that they had borrowed the equipment from friends for experiments.

The youths were placed under arrest Wednesday and were held overnight in the Appleton jail. They have been released to their parents.

According to Lt. Vilas Burmeister, juvenile aid officer, two of the youths will have juvenile court hearings. The 11-year-old youth has been referred to the county welfare department.

Outagamie County Taxes Up $84,648 to $1,840,820

Some of the Equipment taken by three youths, ohe 11 years old, from four schools, the Mid-City Beverage Warehouse, and a new home under construction is shown in the Appleton Police Department photo. The estimated value of the material is $1,300, according to police.

Clerk's Office Now Figuring Municipalities' Share; Appleton to Pay $988,554

The Outagamie County Board Friday approved a 1963 budget of $4,399,448, which requires a property tax levy of $1,840,820.

That is an increase of $84,648 over last year's tax levy of $1,756,172 to finance county government. (The other $2,558,628 will come from state and federal aids and other incomes such as fees and fines.

In addition, the county will collect $107,529 for the state and an additional $26,305 from various school districts for payments of principal and interest on state loans.

Appleton's share of the Outagamie County property tax levy and state charges will amount to an estimated $988,554. Last year the city cost for those items was $944,061. A tax rate of about $7.28 on Appleton's assessed valuation of $135,700,000 in Outagamie County will raise the money to meet county and state obligations next year.

Last year, a rate of $7.34 was needed to meet the county and state charges on the basis of the 1961 assessed valuation of $128,700,000. Thus, while the city taxpayers will be required to furnish more dollars to the state and county governments, the rate required to raise it will be about the same, or possibly slightly lower.

Not Available

(Exact figures on the shares of the county and state charges to be paid by Appleton and other Outagamie County municipalities will not be available until County Clerk Mollie Pfeffer and her staff have been able to calculate the various charges to be made against each of them. Not all municipalities benefit from or pay taxes for certain county services.)

The total 1963 county budget is up $931,369 from last year, but a major portion of the increase is caused by a change in budgetary procedures for the county hospital and Golden Age Home. All anticipated expenditures and revenues at the hospital and home are included in the total budget figures for 1963. They have not been previously.

Changes made during the week by the board raised the amount of total expenditures and revenues to $4,399,448, an increase of $436,663.

Anticipated revenue was raised by $609,039. The reason for the boost in anticipated revenue is the sale of the Golden Age Home No. 1 in New London to the Sisters of Charity, which brought $165,000 into the general fund, plus $444,039 in expected receipts at the county hospital.

Changes Made

Originally, the budget called for $1,949,589 in revenue. The changes raised the total to $2,558,628.

The increased expenditures included $6,500 for an accounting machine, $3,000 for a part-time assistant district attorney, $7,500 for a county auditor, $17,500 for salary increases and mileage, $5,624 for town aid bridge construction, and $441,570 for the county hospital (which includes Golden Age Home No. 2).

One expenditure item, $47,250, was stricken from the original budget presented Monday because of the sale of the New London Golden Age Home.

Supervisor Defends Fischer, Says There Was No Censure'

Eugene Kloes Blasts Ruling by Counsel, Attacks Post-Crescent

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Supv. Al Fischer's conduct during the Outagamie County Board session was defended Friday afternoon, and the rulings of Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath, along with reports in the Appleton Post-Crescent, were criticized.

Eugene Kloes, supervisor from Appleton's 15th Ward, assailed what he referred to as "Ponath's misinterpretation of the law of legislative immunity" and what he called inaccurate Post-Crescent reference to the board's action against Fischer as "censure."

Kloes said the Post-Crescent may have called it censure, "but that was their opinion. Then," he said, "they came and peddled their efforts out in the hall near where the board was meeting."

(Kloes' reference was directed to a Post-Crescent newsboy who sold copies of the paper in the corridor outside the board room.)

One Town?

"Well," Kloes stated, "we only have a one town newspaper and that's what we can expect." (Apparently Kloes called the Post-Crescent a one-town newspaper, when he meant to call Appleton a one-newspaper town.)

"Yesterday," Kloes said, "we passed a resolution as to what we expect in the way of conduct on the county board floor.

"But," he went on, "the statutes as read by Mr. Ponath were completely in error.

"The Blue Book says there is a definite privilege in debate as to what has been said on the floor."

Then Kloes turned his criticism in Ponath's direction.

"Mr. Ponath went above and beyond the call of duty in the way he handled the resolution against Al Fischer," Kloes charged.

"By the law, Mr. Ponath," Kloes said, "we do have legislative immunity. This resolution need not have come on the floor."

Oshkosh Tax Rebate Below Expectations

OSHKOSH — The anticipated state income tax refund for 1962 has fallen short by $109,000. The effect would be to add another $1.10 on the 1963 tax rate.

The proposed 1963 budget called for a tax rate of $43.45 which is $2.25 more than this year's.

City officials had estimated the income tax rebate this year would be $950,000. The actual amount received was $841,443. In 1961 the city received $898,304. The 1963 budget estimate for income taxes is $995,000.

City Mgr. Ray Harbaugh Friday said he did not know if they would have to revise the 1963 estimate. He said he had not had time to completely study the situation.

$15,000 Ordered Paid to Children Of Crash Victims

OSHKOSH — Payment of $15,000 to five children of a Wisconsin Rapids couple killed in a two-car accident on U. S. 41 near Oshkosh on June 30, 1957, has been ordered by Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane.

The payment was ordered after the state supreme court reversed a ruling by former Circuit Judge H. J. Arps that Home Mutual Insurance Company was not liable in the case.

Payment was ordered made to Judith Ann, James, Peter, Constance and Theodore Krause by Home Mutual Insurance Co., insurers of the car driven by their father, John Krause, and Badger State Mutual Casualty Co., insurers of the second car involved.

Krause and his wife, Catherine, were killed when their car collided head on with the car driven by Raymond Ott, Menominee Falls.

The children had sued Home Mutual Insurance Company on the basis of negligence of their father. The company had denied liability in the case.

Home mutual earlier had made a $15,000 out-of-court settlement with Ott.

Burglars crawled 12 feet up a light post, walked across a roof and entered the store by forcing a second story window.

3 of GOP Seek Speakers Chair

Bids Launched Friday for Post In '63 Assembly

MADISON (AP)—Three Republicans—Robert Haase of Marinette, Willis Hutnik of Tony and Everett Bidwell of Portage—launched bids Friday to become Assembly Speaker in the 1963 Legislature.

They announced their candidacy after Speaker David Blanchard, R-Edgerton, indicated he would not seek the powerful office again because of ill health.

Haase, 39, will be serving his fourth term in the Assembly. He was Republican floor leader in the last session.

Hutnik, 47, is a veteran of six terms and was Speaker pro tem during the 1961 session. Bidwell, 63, first was elected to the Assembly in 1952 and was co-chairman of the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee in the last session.

Haase said, "We face a difficult session and we need a Speaker who can help formulate a legislative plan, and with a narrow 53-47 margin, pass that plan."

Hutnik said in a letter that he believes "my record and experience qualify me for the Speaker's chair next year."

Bidwell noted his 10 years in the Assembly and said "I feel I know the workings of our Legislature well enough to serve as Speaker."

Appleton Tax Rate Will be Close to $47

It now appears the Appleton tax rate in Outagamie County will be close to $47 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

The Appleton budget at this point would require a levy of $38.68, an increase of $1.91 over last year's figure of $36.77.

However, Friday it was revealed that income tax shares for this year may be $140,000 less than anticipated, practically wiping out an anticipated balance at the end of the year of $147,000. Another $1 on the rate would be required to make up the difference, bringing the increase for city purposes only (county and state charges still to be added) to $2.91, or a total of $39.68.

A county (and state) rate of $7.28 would make the total rate $46.96, compared to last year's $44.10 in the Outagamie portion of Appleton.

The near - $3 increase would practically wipe out the benefits of the refund from the sales tax, designed to help reduce property taxes. It is estimated that will amount to $3.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation in Appleton.

The Appleton council still may make changes in the anticipated expenditures and receipts when the council meets Wednesday to adopt the budget.

A Look Ahead to Meet the Challenge of Change is accomplished through many eyes in today's educational processes. Some of the newer methods were emphasized during special observances this week. With new visual aids materials, the children are helped in making papier-mache globes, beginning steps for making the world they live in a reality. These fourth grade students from Neenah's Hoover School, Paul Bergner and Margo Pauli, are working with their teacher Mrs. Sally Wieland. This fourth grade class will move to Coolidge School when the building is completed in February 1963. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

False. One of the most frequent ways in which students rebel is by a kind of passive resistance, says Nevitt Sanford after a 10-year study. Rebellious students do precisely what is required, and not a bit more. They make it tough for anyone who gets too close to the teacher, or who do more than the other students have decided is enough. Such quiet rebellion is hard to combat even though it hurts the students quite as much as it bothers the faculty.

Are there certain questions that help you choose a college?

Yes, there are several, such as: What colleges are particularly strong in the field in which you want to specialize? What part of the country do you prefer? How large an institution do you want? Does it matter whether it is publicly supported or private? Church-related? Co-educational? Have you talked with graduates of several colleges in which you might become interested? Can you visit two or three that look good to you? Which can you afford? What are your chances of getting in? Which of those that interest you give you the most encouragement?

Is it all right to use everyday situations in children's sex education?

Yes, it is. The children attend a wedding. Mother expects a new baby. A neighbor couple get a divorce. The dog has puppies, or the cat has kittens. . . all natural opportunities to answer children's questions. As one mother with four children under eight says, "Lately the cat had five kittens. This presented a good opportunity to answer questions that had not been raised since the last time the cat had kittens. Same kids, same cat, same questions, same answers, but in a little more detail."

School Milk Break May be Discontinued

MANITOWOC (AP) — A milk break may be dropped in schools here because only about five per cent of the students participate, and apparently because someone dropped a cupcake.

The program has been criticized by the School Board, with one member saying the cupcakes that go with the milk are so hard they could be bounced off the floor.

Weave This Table Mat by Using Netting and String

BY CAPPY DICK

One of the easiest weaving projects for a boy or girl to undertake is described as today's fun project. Colored yarn or colored string is woven through holes in netting as in Figure 2 to produce a table mat Mother will find useful.

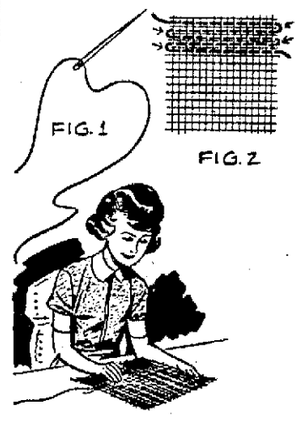

Mosquito netting is good for this purpose, but the coarser, red netting used for bags that hold oranges or potatoes is even easier, to use.

Cut a piece of the netting to the size you want the table mat to be. Find a large darning needle with a big eye and thread it (Figure 1) with bright yellow or bright green string or yarn. The string or floss should be as long as you can conveniently handle so you will not have to thread the needle often.

Weave the needle in and out of the openings in the netting, going from one side of the material to the other as shown in Figure 2, until the entire mat has been woven. When the weaving reaches one side of the material and you are ready to weave in the opposite direction, do not pull the string or yarn too tightly, but leave a very small loop as indicated by the arrows in Figure 2.

If you wish, you may combine two colors, weaving four rows of yellow, for example, then four rows of green. Tie the end of each new string to the end of the string that has already been woven, making the knot small and tight.

When the weaving has been completed, cut the ends of all the loops at the sides of the mat.

Use a Darning Needle

This will form a fringe. If the net starts to unravel, or the fringe pulls out, bind the edges on the underside of the mat with strips of transparent tape.

Political Oil Poses Problem For Americans

Soviets Dumping Petroleum Just To Raise Trouble

BY SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Political oil is just one of many problems besetting the American oil industry this year. But this one at least had better be left to the federal government, says an industry leader today. By political oil he means that which the Soviet Union has dumped on scattered markets to disrupt them.

And a U.S. government official agrees that world events call for stronger bonds between the petroleum industry and the federal government.

Soviet oil in itself could be met competitively by American companies, says L. F. McCollum, president of Continental Oil Co. Houston, Tex. But Moscow has used it for other than economic purposes.

Gave Reminder

McCollum, chairman of the American Petroleum Institute, reminds fellow oilmen meeting in Chicago

"This threat goes far beyond the oil industry. This is not just an attack on petroleum or any other single industry. It is part of a planned campaign to wreck the free enterprise system worldwide.

"More often than not, Soviet oil deals are made for political reasons rather than commercial, with world political influence the objective instead of financial profits."

The federal official—John M. Kelly, assistant secretary of the Interior Department for mineral resources—speaking today at the same meeting, stresses moves underway to bolster government-industry relationships. A prime object is preparing the oil and gas industry "for meeting suppiy and demand requirements in an emergency." Ranking high are both "national security and economic growth."

Kelly says, "Once again the events of history have demonstrated the compelling need for strengthening the bonds between the petroleum industry and the federal government."

The Soviet moves which have upset markets in which American oil companies with international operations had a stake have concentrated on offering oil at prices well below the American. U.S. oilmen stress that this can be done because the Kremlin can set any price that suits its political purpose without regard to cost of production—and certainly without any need to show a profit as the privately owned American firms must strive to do

Nearer Home

Painful as this has been in particular instances, the American oil industry's major problems have been nearer home overproduction, excess capacity, weak product prices, and the controversy over importation of foreign oil.

McCollum says most can be solved by "applying sound economics and good common sense to management decisions." He predicts domestic petroleum demand this year will average 10.2 million barrels daily, or 4.2 per cent over last year, for the largest annual increase since 1955. And increased auto sales this fall foreshadow good demand in the months ahead.

Kloes Defends Fischer on County Board

tive immunity does not mean that anyone can file a written paper which contains slanderous charges."

Ponath agreed that legislative immunity does apply to oral debate, but he said, "He filed a paper. There was no debate. Anyone who calls that legislative immunity doesn't know what he's talking about."

Ponath objected strenuously to Kloes' referral to him as "a busy little bee" and asked, "Do I have to go to Mr. Fischer or Mr. Kloes or any other individual board member (to clear his actions) to keep from having slander thrown at me?"

Private Attorney

Kloes stated that Ponath had acted as a private attorney for Vernon J. Stannard, former director of the county's Golden Age Home at New London, when Stannard offered to purchase the home.

"What about Mr. Stannard?" Kloes asked. "You acted as his attorney all the way. You even coached him out in the hall-way."

Ponath said, "I was asked to go over the lease with him, which Mr. Stannard had prepared by his own attorney."

Kloes denied that was true.

Conradt then entered the heated discussion, saying, "I don't think Mr. Stannard should hire an attorney, when the county already has one."

County Sold Home

(The county sold the Golden Age Home to the Sisters of Charity, a Roman Catholic order, for $165,000. A request by Stannard to purchase the home under a lease-land contract arrangement involving a total purchase price of $200,000 was considered by the board before it accepted the sisters' offer.)

Fischer said: "In relation to the New London hospital, Mr. Ponath would have been in his rights to work with Mr. Stannard if it was a county matter, but Mr. Stannard was negotiating a personal contract."

Then Fischer once again read to the county board the first paragraph of his letter which he claimed contained nothing slanderous.

"As we sit here today, gentlemen," Fischer stated, "you don't know how unbelievable the situation is.

"When I said yesterday that I was sorry, I meant it," Fischer concluded, "but some of us are afraid to hear the truth."

New Books

Vance Packard Views Industry Management

Vance Packard, author of "The Hidden Persuaders" and "The Waste Makers" is derided in some circles, but his titles have become household symbols.

"The Pyramid Climbers," one of the new books added this week at the Appleton Public Library, may not have quite the impact of his other books, but the research represented covers a fact of American life that may have the even greater long-term significance: the relationship between the large industrial corporation and its management-level employees.

Packard has synthesized the trend of articles in leading business and management magazines with his own observations at interviews, seminars, sessions and social occasions. He has had access to forms, records and procedures of personnel departments, recruiting firms and testing agencies, and has even subjected himself to some of the tests given to aspiring managers.

Attributes of Executives

He notes the distinction between the responsibilities involved in risk-taking decisions and those of problem-solving decisions, and the contrast between corporate man and entrepreneurs. He has outlined the most striking attributes and grievous failings of executives, their health and marital problems, the inability of frequently transferred men and their families to put down community roots, the most (and least) likely routes to the top of the pyramid.

The strain of keeping a place in the pecking order is no mean problem to the middle level manager who happens to be temperamentally better equipped to be president than he is to hold his tongue until he is promoted. Packard's most interesting chapters focus on the dilemma of those who face that danger, of "washing out" before they achieve their potential.

"Coronation," Paul Gallico's newest, has the potentials of a tear jerker, but fortunately he has kept the telling on an almost journalistic level. Here, dramatized in the story of one family of five that traveled down to London "to see the Queen," is revealed the British reverence for the symbol of royalty, their generally high code of ethics, and their extraordinary ability to salvage from the wreck of hopes something estimable to carry on.

No Happy Ending

The Claggs had sacrificed the annual fortnight by the sea for the chance to see the coronation day parade from reserved seats, only to find that their reserved seat tickets were phoneys. Gallico resisted the temptation to provide a happy ending, and what he has done is closer to real life, for the Claggs, desperate as was the disappointment, each found a measure of reprieve, a reward, and a new deepening of family unity.

$210 Million in Typhoon Damage

AGANA, Guam (AP)—The acting governor of Guam has put a price tag of $210 million on restoring the island's typhoon-battered economy and pledged a long-range recovery program to prevent the growth of shantytown communities.

Guam officials said Friday the cost of repairing and rebuilding government property damaged Sunday by typhoon Karen would be $50 million, with private property needs about $160 million.

Acting Gov. Manuel Guerrero emphasized that the figures don't include emergency steps taken to help the island get back on its feet after the worst disaster in its history.

Karen swept across the center of Guam with winds of 175 miles an hour and turned the island into one huge pile of debris. Eight natives died—the latest injured victim succumbing Thursday—and 9,000 families are homeless.

Reynolds, Nelson Get Appropriation

MADISON (AP)— Expenditures of up to $5,000 for staff and other expenses of Gov.-elect John W. Reynolds and $4,500 for an official portrait of Gov. Gaylord Nelson were authorized Friday by the Board on Government Operations.

Sen. William Draheim, R-Neenah, chairman of the board, said approval of the appropriations, as required by law, was obtained by mail ballot.

The governor-elect is authorized to spend up to $5,000 for administrative and stenographic help in reviewing budget requests and the building program and for work on his legislative program.

Aluminum Corporation Ex-Chairman Dies at 95

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Arthur Vining Davis, former chairman of the board of the Aluminum Corporation of America and holder of vast Florida real estate, died today at his home. He was 95.

Davis died in the new pink mansion he had built on his estate, "Journey's End," in southwest Dade County. He moved into the mansion last spring, shortly before his 95th birthday, May 30.

The tiny financial wizard had not been feeling well since Thursday. In recent months he had not been his usual active self in business and had curtailed his once daily visits to his office.

MADISON (AP)—Further legal maneuvers are expected in the city of Madison's dispute with the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation over design of a lakeshore civic auditorium.

City Attorney Edwin C. Conrad said Friday he will advise the City Council to appeal to the State Supreme Court a Circuit Court decision that Madison must arbitrate the dispute.

Circuit Judge Richard W. Bardwell ruled Thursday that the city cannot terminate its contract with the foundation, which completed plans for the auditorium after the death of Frank Lloyd Wright.

The City Council has endorsed selection of a new auditorium site and declared the foundation contract terminated. The foundation is demanding performance under the contract and arbitration of its claim for payment for work already carried out.

A public vote suported construction of the auditorium and cost of the project was estimated in 1956 at $5.5 million. Delays held up bids on the proposed structure until March, 1961.

When bids were opened, they totaled $10.5 million and a new city administration opposed the project.

GOP Chiefs to Direct Future Campaigns

Decision Made After Kuehn and Wiley Lose

MADISON (AP)—Stung by the defeats of gubernatorial candidate Philip Kuehn and Sen. Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin's Republican Executive Committee has decided future GOP election campaigns for high office will be directed as well as financed by state party headquarters.

The committee spent most of a long, closed session Friday blaming the defeats of Kuehn and Wiley on their failure to correlate their campaigns with GOP headquarters.

"State headquarters will direct campaigns — period," said state chairman Claude Jasper.

"It is not only the error of the Kuehn campaign, but of past campaigning," he added. "The Executive Committee has let things grow out of hand to the point where it had no power of persuasion.

Tax View Noted

Republican National committeeman Robert L. Pierce of Menomonie gave his view on why Republicans lost their bid to capture the governorship from Democratic nominee John Reynolds.

"I think Phil Kuehn emphasized taxes, and he was honest and in his own words 'forthright' in talking about taxes," Pierce said. "But that wasn't the only issue and in the last week of the campaign Reynolds took the play away and there was no response, no refutation."

Jasper agreed with Pierce on why voters elected Reynolds over Kuehn by a narrow margin.

"I thought we had firmly planted the tax monkey on the backs of the Democrats," Jasper said. "But that changed about Oct. 1 and Republicans became taxers in the eyes of the voters because of Reynolds' anti-sales tax tactics.

Had No Adversary

"Kuehn wanted to run on fiscal affairs. He wanted to lay this thing right smack in the laps of voters. But he did not have an adversary who wanted to do that, and, despite headquarters prompting, Kuehn would not alter his campaign."

The Executive Committee marked for further action a request by the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs that Republicans abandon their procedure of endorsing candidates. Such a change would need the support of at least 10 counties at the GOP convention next spring.

Charges Claim UW Lacks Proper 'Atmosphere'

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

A University of Wisconsin official defended the large institution against charges that it did not afford students the sympathetic atmosphere for intellectual growth found on the smaller campus.

Robert Taylor, assistant to the president at the University of Wisconsin, spoke at the Diamond Anniversary convention of the Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges meeting in Washington, D. C.

Using his own institution as an example, Taylor said that the University of Wisconsin, with more than 30,000 students, "is a much better institution than it was at 10,000, 3,000 or 300."

He explained that a large institution, which could afford to support a larger number of smaller classes than a small college, also has the ability to "do almost anything it undertakes," and undertakes more activities, cultural and educational, than the small college.

The Wisconsin delegation to the convention included President Fred H. Harrington and about 25 other staff members. C. M. Ferguson of the University's Agriculture Extension Center for Advanced Study also addressed the convention.

Don't Let Youngster Catch Measles Early

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Mom makes a big mistake when she allows junior to catch the measles when very young so he will not miss school later on, an Oklahoma City physician said today.

Red measles, the ordinary variety, "is a very dangerous disease that every year results in numerous fatalities," Dr. Harris J. Riley Jr., said in an address prepared for the Southern Medical Association convention.

Fox Valley Ignored in Dire Nielsen Ratings

'Beverly Hill Billies' Top of List, But We Were Watching Lombardi

BY JINGO

The terrifying Nielsen ratings have been delivered to the front offices with their life and death messages. The hopeful shows poised on the starting blocks only a few weeks ago have come to the moment of truth and there are some that will be getting an early shower.

Jingo

In addition to this direful news to the shows, the ratings also hold a rather sad note for us in the Fox Valley.

Somehow, when ratings are mentioned and discussed, they've given us a sort of feeling of power. We are part of those ratings, we feel. We have something to say of what's going to be sent into our homes through that old boob tube.

But now the power is seeping away. The latest ratings give us the lie to that wonderful feeling. It's out now. We're spoon fed with no recourse.

The disquieting truth is found in the rating winner. It's "The Beverly Hill Billies." Critics have given this dressed up version of the "Real McCoys" some of the worst drubbings any show has ever received, but the Nielsen says the people love it the best.

But not us! We've been saved from them through the good auspices of Vince Lombardi.

No Meaning Here

So now you see what the Nielsen ratings mean to us. If the football season means freedom of the "Beverly Hill Billies" no matter how popular the ratings say they are, may the football season never end.

Without our help the ratings have given the new Lucy Show its second spot in the race and the all-time favorite "Bonanza" gets the runner-up spt.

At the other end of the scale—the end that may mean quick and sure death are two big production shows and a big surprise.

Two Doomed Shows

The doomed productions are the Roy Rogers Show and the series "Fair Exchange." The apparent expense of both shows would call for close to full appreciation. The rating score by Nielsen and without our help would almost certainly spell the end.

The fate spelled ut by the ratings always is sure and sudden. Last year James Whitmore's "The Law and Mr. Jones" was pulled from the brink dug by the ratings with a strong chain of letters from outraged fans.

The third poor report owner could call for such another action. Ignoring the Fox Valley, Nielsen says "It's a Man's World" is bad medicine. From every report Jingo has received and from catching the show once or twice himself, this show had some of the finest qualities of the new season's entries.

Very Little Recourse

Nielsen has made himself something of a hanging judge with very little review recourse. One of the arguments against the operation of the industry is its dependence on this kind of mechanical criterion. Many have said it is not as flawless as it is pictured.

With the "It's a Man's World" report and the revelation that we are not a part of the sample, the rating for the Nielsen can't be very high around here. But no one asked us.

'Elephant Boy' Returns to Film Career

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It should not be a surprise that Sabu the Elephant Boy is no longer a boy.

After all, he starred in "Elephant Boy" back in 1937, when he was 11. That makes him all of 36, yet he is now playing his first really grownup role in films. He even has his first screen wife.

Sabu is working at Warner Brothers in "Rampage" with Robert Mitchum, Elsa Martinelli and Jack Hawkins. It is the Indian-born actor's return to acting after a long absence, during which he suffered a deep personal loss.

Brother Killed

His brother, Shaik Dastigir, was killed by an 18-year-old boy he had hired in his furniture store. The youth decided to rob him, and Dastigir was shot in a scuffle.

Sabu said that he didn't feel like working after the tragedy.

"It took me a long time to get over it," he remarked. "My brother and I were very close, and the whole thing was so senseless."

He busied himself with running the furniture store, and engaged in building and operating apartment houses. Married for 14 years and father of two, he is aware of his responsibilities.

Wants Jungle Series

The new film is a good return for him. He plays the head tracker for a game-hunting expedition in Malaya. The company recently returned from the island of Hawaii, which doubled for the Malaya jungle.

His ambition now is to stay in the jungle—with a television series.

River Jordan Probed by Close-Up!

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channel 11) — Close-Up! tells the story of "The Turbulent Jordan," the river which divides Israel and Jordan and which both countries are planning to use for irrigation and power. The program scrupulously presents both sides of this explosive question—each country threatens war if the other finishes its project—and, by cutting back and forth between Israeli and Arab officials and farmers, forcefully shows the nearly exact duplication of thought on either bank of the river.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — The Jackie Gleason Show has a funny skit about a fatty, who can't resist food and behaves like an alcoholic does with liquor. Gleason plays this sorely tempted man, with Lucille Patton as his wife and Frank Fontaine as the man he turns to in his lowest moment. Another skit has Jackie and Alice Ghostley reprising their Agnes and Arthur characters, back on the tenement front stop.

6:20-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — Sam Benedict (Edmond O'Brien) and his legal beagle puppy Hank Tabor (Richard Rust) split the duty this week. O'Brien uses psychology to convince a proud old Hungarian restaurateur and the latter's relatively young wife that they really don't want a divorce. And Rust uses medical trickery to save his old flame, Diana Hyland, from a long prison stretch for drunken driving.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — The Defenders has a good one again, with the crux of the matter being the excuse the Nazis used in the Nuremberg trials—they were only following orders in all their killings. Irene Dailey, as the widow of a murdered man, voices this plea here, when the murderer says her husband was a concentration camp commandant and killer.

* * *

8:30-9 (Channel 2) — Have Gun, Will Travel has a trifle this week, as Paladin tries to recover a statue stolen from a religious mission.

Church Sets First Services

Worship to Start This Sunday at Good Shepherd

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, a new Missouri Synod congregation at 2219 E. College Ave., will conduct its first Sunday school session and worship service this Sunday.

The Sunday school, which includes classes for all ages, will begin at 9:15 a. m. with an opening worship in the church.

The worship service will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. immediately following the Sunday school hour. The Rev. H. P. Hilgendorf, pastor of Good Shepherd, will preach on the theme "If I Had One Sermon to Preach." Ed Rath will serve as organist.

Plans are being made for dedication of the church building, installation of the pastor and an open house on Jan. 27.

Robert Mikelson, superintendent of the Sunday school, announced that any parents interested in enrolling their children in the Sunday school should call Regent 9-2449, Regent 4-9643 or Regent 9-1121, preferably before Saturday evening.

Any child who reached the age of three before Oct. 1 of this year may be enrolled.

The teaching staff includes Mrs. Martin Hintz and Mrs. Ewald List, nursery classes; Miss Barbara Mason, kindergarten class; Mrs. Marvin Riegert and Mrs. Wallace Fuhrmann, primary classes; Mrs. Harold Hanson, junior class; Lowell Matthies and Ewald List, intermediate classes; the Rev. H. P. Hilgendorf, youth Bible class, and Walter Doberstein, adult Bible class.

Tipsy Drivers Draw Fines

Two Oshkosh Men Also Given Jail Sentences

OSHKOSH — Lester Struebing, 48, 332 W. Wind Road, Oshkosh, was fined $250 for drunken driving, $50 for violation of his occupational driving license and sentenced to 60 days in the county jail Friday by Judge James V. Sitter.

Struebing was arrested last Sunday by the state patrol at U S. 41 and State 110. He had pleaded guilty.

Lawrence Meton, 38, 2300 Harrison St., Oshkosh, was fined $200 for drunken driving and sentenced to 60 days in jail for driving after revocation of his driver's license. He was arrested Sunday by county police on County Grunk AA after an accident. He also pleaded guilty.

CHILTON—Richard P. Funk, 20, route 2, Hilbert, escaped injury when his car hit a highway marker post at the fog shrouded State 55-114 intersection south of Sherwood about 3:30 a.m. Thursday.

Funk told Calumet County police he was northbound on 114 and was attempting to turn onto 55 when the mishap occurred. He said he didn't see the post in the fog.

Damage was estimated at $200.

Educational Need Cited For Migrant Children

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The need of children of migrant agricultural workers for special attention of public educational services in Wisconsin is a desperate one, the chairman of the state committee on migratory labor said here Friday.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Raushenbush, chairman of the Governor's Committee on Migratory Labor, sent a special appeal to Wisconsin schoolmen to prepare for more special services to the children of migratory worker families during the 1963 school year.

She said that for school purposes, such children are legally qualified members of the school districts in which their parents are living and working, and that because so many of them have fallen behind in their school achievement, the average educational retardation in the group is from three to four years.

Mrs. Raushenbush said that during the last migrant labor season in Wisconsin there were 10,785 migrant workers in agriculture here, according to the state employment service, and that they have about 3,671 children under the age of 16 years.

Mrs. Raushenbush urged establishment of more summer schools in local districts for the service of such children.

She hailed the experimental schools that have been launched at Manitowoc and Lake Mills during recent years. The fact that there are now special state aids available for such summer schools means that resident children can also take advantage of such service, she reminded.

She warned also that children under the age of 12 cannot be employed in the fields, under Wisconsin law, so that what used to be parental resistance to their enrollment in school should no longer be a factor.

Ex-Prisoner Kills Self

Man Takes Life as Authorities Arrive To Arrest Him

A 59-year-old former prisoner in the Outagamie County jail who had been released under Huber law probation died of self-inflicted gunshot wounds Friday only seconds before he was to be placed under arrest by sheriff's authorities for probation violation.

Fred Karnopp, route 1, Menasha, died about 4 p.m. Friday at the Appleton home of his daughter, Germaine Karnopp, 721 W. Third St. He was found in a small bathroom off the kitchen.

Sheriff Lt. Jack Zuelzke and Huber law officer Louis Micheln went to Miss Karnopp's home on a complaint from Karnopp's wife that her husband had violated his parole by drinking. Mrs. Karnopp, who appeared at the sheriff's department Friday, told authorities her husband had a rifle with him which contained two bullets. Mrs. Karnopp also said that her husband might be found at his daughter's home.

Zuelzke and Micheln went to the home but could not get in. Miss Karnopp was called home from work and opened the back door and let the two men in. When Zuelzke and Micheln entered the kitchen, they heard a gunshot Zuelzke opened the bathroom door and found Karnopp's body.

Karnopp had been arrested in November, 1961, for non-support and was released later to the probation of Sheriff Robert Heinritz.

He has served in such capacities as cabinet member in charge of public works, transport and communications, and is the former chairman of Senate Foreign Relations Commission.

Along with his new appointment, he now is serving as president of the Haitian Bible Society which was founded by his grandfather.

Tire, Wheel Taken From Parked Car

OSHKOSH—Gary Pilgreen, 1804 W. Pine St., Appleton, who is employed at a Valley Fair Shopping Center store, went out to his car to go home Friday night and the right front of the car sagged as if the tire was flat.

Closer investigation revealed thieves had taken not only the tire but the wheel as well. If it was any consolation, they left the hubcap and wheel lugs.

Applications for Hospital Head Not Wanted Now

No applications for the post of superintendent at the County Hospital should be made at this time, Alvin Fulcer, chairman of the Outagamie County Board, says.

Fulcer said he is being swamped with applications for the post, but they cannot be considered now.

First, he said, he must appoint a temporary board of trustees to work with the county board's executive committee in selecting a permanent board of trustees.

Meanwhile, he pointed out, applications for memberships for the permanent board will be accepted until Dec. 15. The permanent board, along with the executive committee, will then select the superintendent, he said.

Cuba Shows Little Effect on Economy

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Now that the Cuba crisis has simmered down to controlled anxiety and indefinite tension, just what impact did the showdown have on the American economy? What effect is it likely to have on the U.S. budget? Where are we in the business cycle now and where are we heading?

Porter

Here are informed answers to questions which millions of Americans surely are asking.

Q. What impact did the Cuba crisis have on our economy?

A. Very little, because it stopped where and when it did. The rise in spending traceable to the Cuba flare-up is estimated at $200 million or less — picayune in a $94 billion annual budget and not enough to change the picture at all. There have been no major increases in spending programs by businessmen or consumers based on the crisis: it was too short-lived. The strong stand taken by President Kennedy and the apparent removal by the Soviets of their missiles from Cuba have perked up psychology — a plus for our economy. Relief over the results to date has added strength to our stock market — another plus. Whatever impact the crisis has had has been on the plus side, but fundamentally our economy is just about where it was pre-Oct. 22.

Effect on Budget

Q. What effect is the crisis likely to have on the U.S. budget?

A. The administration's assumption in drawing up the budget to be submitted by the President in January is that the struggle with Russia will continue indefinitely, but without either war or significant relaxation of tensions. Thus, the prospect is that the new budget — to cover the year beginning next July — will call for spending of more billions for defense and space activities. But to help offset these increases Kennedy is slashing spending requests for civilian programs. The budget isn't firm yet, but it's moving toward completion and it is what Washington experts call a middle-of-the road type of budget.

It will be a record peacetime budget and there will be a deficit. That's taken for granted. But Kennedy is rejecting calls for big spending hikes because he still plans to push hard for and hopes to win substantial tax reductions for individuals and corporations next year and he doesn't want to risk a budget deficit that might encourage Congress to turn down his tax cut proposals.

Q. Where are we in the business cycle now?

A. Moving sluggishly ahead. There are some bright spots, notably in autos, where sales are amazing even the optimists. Steel demand finally is climbing again, reflecting the auto boom and the fact that cutting of steel inventories is running its course. Paced by auto sales, retail sales in October hit a peak for any month.

But over-all, we're not really getting anywhere. We're sitting on a very high plateau, marking time.

Q. Where are we heading?

A. For more of the same, assuming no war or all-out mobilization occurs and unless aggressive action is taken to accelerate our growth.

The new tax credit and liberalized depreciation rules well may stimulate businessmen to spend more on plants and equipment than they now plan. A continuing auto boom would have an excellent impact.

But there doesn't appear any "natural" new spur on the horizon and the present expansion cycle already is in its 21st month. We are in a period of transition between the great boom of post-World War II and the coming upswing when the postwar baby crop comes of age in the mid-1960s.

Get Economy Moving

Q. How can we get the economy moving strongly up again?

A. There is extraordinarily widespread agreement, crossing lines of economic thinking and politics, that the answer lies in substantial, across-the-board tax reduction. This would stimulate consumer spending, it would thereby take up the slack in plant capacity, it would spur businessmen to invest more in plants and equipment, it would give Americans increased incentive to go into new, risk ventures.

President Kennedy is pledged to ask for these tax reductions as soon as Congress convenes.

We have been in a cycle of slow growth since 1955. There are no signs we'll break out of the cycle until Congress removes the drag our tax structure exerts on our economy every time it tries to push ahead.

UW Faculty Wants Frats Locally Run

Passes Resolution That Bias Can't be Ordered Nationally

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin has added a new weapon in its attack on racial and religious discrimination by campus fraternities and sororities.

By action last week, the Wisconsin faculty served notice that discriminatory membership practices cannot be forced on university student groups by national officers, alumni, advisors or others from off campus.

The faculty passed a resolution requiring local members of student groups to have complete freedom to judge each student on the basis of individual merit.

The action was coupled with a vote to require all fraternities and sororities to report by Feb. 1 on present membership selection practices.

Since 1960 Wisconsin has operated under a rule that prohibits fraternities and sororities from rejecting membership candidates on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin.

But the question of racial discrimination came to a head earlier this year when the Beloit College chapter of Delta Gamma was put on probation by the sorority's national council after it pledged a Negro girl.

Delta Gamma's national council said its action toward the Beloit College chapter was for other reasons, but the Wisconsin faculty human rights committee decided to look into the matter.

Investigation of the incident led the committee to recommend that the Wisconsin chapter of Delta Gamma be closed down. The committee said Delta Gamma's national council membership policies "represent a degree of control by outside groups inconsistent with rules of the university."

Brought Protests

The recommendation that the campus chapter be banned by next June 30 brought protests from the local sorority that it was not at fault and was put in a position of being unable to take action to lift the ban.

The committee asked the faculty to delay action on the recommendation to allow time to assess "certain affirmative action in the area of human rights" promised by the Delta Gamma national and local.

To date, the faculty has not acted on the recommendation.

But the faculty was prompted by the incident to clarify its stand on local autonomy for fraternities and sororities.

Passed was a resolution stating that students of each organization must have autonomy to nominate and select members without limitation "...in any way by constitutional, ritualistic, or other restrictions, written or unwritten, imposed from outside the campus."

Reports on membership practices are to be forwarded to the faculty committee on human rights and unless the committee is satisfied that a social organization has local autonomy, further reports will be required.

Damage to 'Borrowed' Auto Isn't Covered by Insurance

Centerville High School had won the football game, and everyone was in a gay mood. When some of the gang suggested to Sam that they take a joy ride in his uncle's new car, Sam agreed. No one asked Uncle Bill for his permission.

After driving for almost an hour, Sam decided to return the car. As they were driving back, intending to leave the car where they had found it, the car skidded on the wet highway and slid into a ditch. It was a total wreck.

The next day Uncle Bill told his insurance agent about the accident and requested that the company pay for the car under the theft provision of his policy.

The insurance company denied that they were liable. "Your car was borrowed, not stolen," they said.

"My policy insures me against damage caused by theft, robbery or pilferage," said Uncle Bill. "The car was stolen, and I have a right to be paid."

Must the insurance company pay this claim?

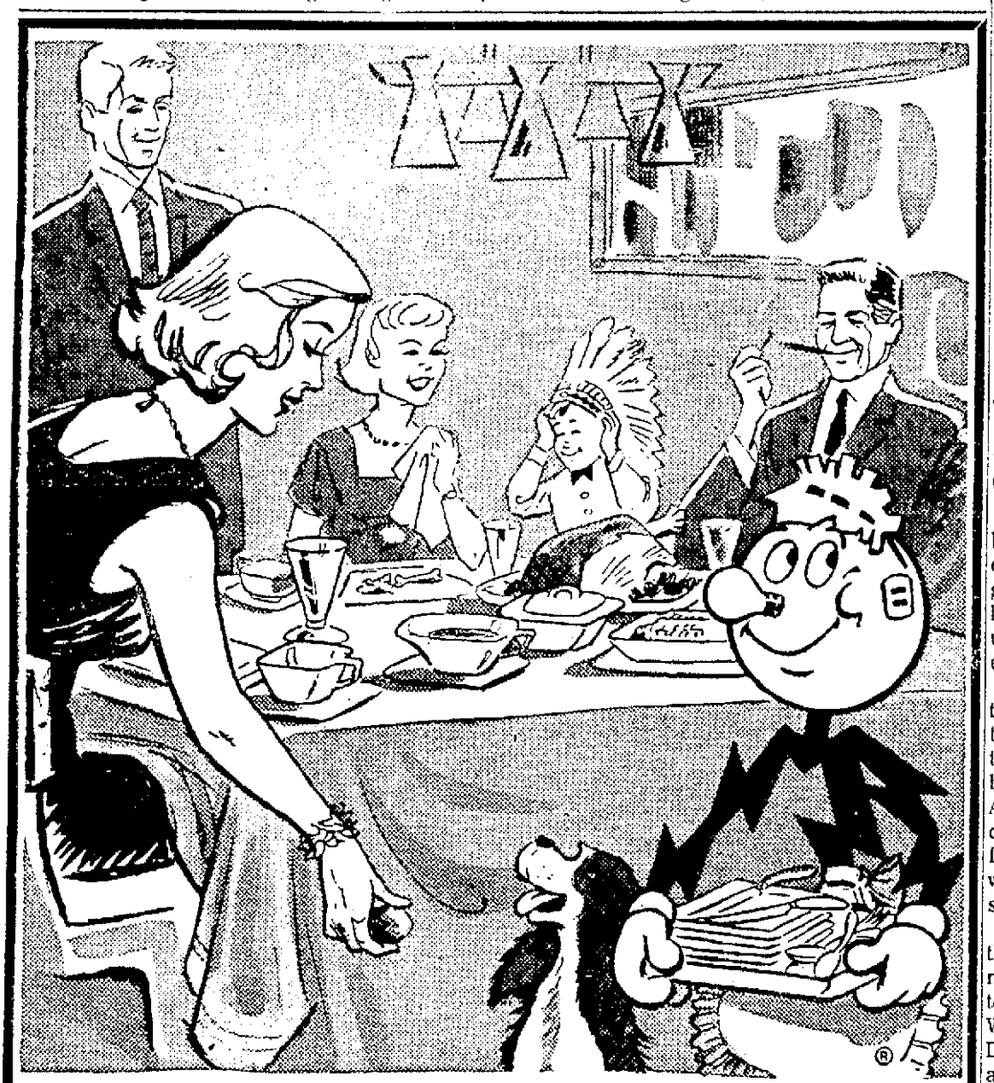

No, said the court. The insurance company is not liable unless it is shown that the one who took the car had an intent to steal it. That is, that the wrongdoers intended to permanently deprive the owner of his car.

If the person taking the car intended to return it in good condition and within a reasonable time, the insurance company is not liable under the theft provision of the policy.

In this case Sam did not intend to steal the car, but only to go for a joy ride and return it.

Uncle Bill may be able to sue Sam or his father for the damages to his new car, but the theft provision in his insurance policy does not cover such a case. The insurance company won the case.

If Uncle Bill had carried collision coverage, such as a $100 deductible clause, the insurance company would pay for all damage over $100.

The tumor registry at St. Elizabeth Hospital shows a slight decrease in cancer deaths in Outagamie County, Dr. Paul Cunningham told the Outagamie County unit of the American Cancer Society.

He reviewed the progress of two programs initiated in Appleton hospitals by the county unit: the tumor registry at St. Elizabeth, and the cytology program at Appleton Memorial Hospital. The cytology program, which is used for the detction of cancer in women, is now self-supporting, he said.

Dr. Frank Wright, president of the unit, introduced new board members elected for three-year terms. They are Milan Sinclair, Wesley Stehr, Donald Genge and Dr. C. E. Fenlon, all of Appleton, and Mrs. Arlyn Schultz, Hortonville. Dr. Paul Hodges was named county education chairman.

you to infer that I was panicked by it. But we've checked this out in almost every m[illegible]y in the country, and although it's an unusual situation the only conclusion we can gather is because the Packers have an unusual team.

Tremendous Respect

"We haven't had this in the league in years — that one team could win by two [illegible] scores in one season. Apparently, the bettors have developed a tremendous respect for Green Bay. The superiority of the Packers has been shown to such a marked degree that the oddsmakers just can't set enough points against them."

Rozelle discounted the possibility that New York bookmakers stopped taking bets on the Packers because of their behavior during their muddied 9-7 victory over the Detroit Lions last Oct. 7 — even though that was the date when the city's bookies started saying no bet on Green Bay money.

In their win over the Lions, the Packers' otherwise unstoppable ground - gaining machine didn't cross the goal line once. Instead, Green Bay scored on three field goals, one of them kicked in the final seconds by Paul Hornung. Since the Packers had been a 7½ point favorite over Detroit, they won the game but lost on the points.

"I saw nothing suspicious in that game," said Rozelle. "Detroit has a pretty good defensive team and the field conditions were very bad. Green Bay had started out at the beginning of the week as a 10-point favorite on the basis of its 49-0 win over the Bears the week before.

Not Indicative

"But Detroit money hammered the points down to 7½ because a 49-0 win over a team as crippled as the Bears were was not indicative of the Packers' true superiority in that game.

"What happened was that there was a minute and a half to play and Detroit was winning, 7-6, but elected to pass for the first down instead of trying to run and use up time.

"It was supposed to be a hitch pass to Terry Barr, but when he tried to pivot, he slipped on the muddy field and the ball went right into Adderley's hands for an interception. He caught it on the Green Bay 42 and returned it to the Detroit 18.

"I see nothing suspicious in Detroit's decision to pass, and even if somebody thought it was suspicious, how could you blame Green Bay for it?

"Of course, the Lions in retrospect wish they hadn't thrown the pass, but it was a comparatively safe pass. So many coaches get burned in the final seconds that they don't like to sit on a lead. Another thing, Green Bay also has the best runback man in the league. You're not going to punt and put the ball up in the air if you can help it."

Rozelle said that a check by his agents showed that Green Bay has remained on the boards in such cities as Philadelphia, Milwaukee and Chicago. In some cases, he said, Green Bay doesn't go on the boards until later in the week but he attributed this to the continuing uncertainty of whether the injured Hornung would be in the Packers' lineup.

Having Trouble

In addition, he said, so much money was being wagered on Green Bay that bookies apparently are having trouble balancing the bets with money put up against the Packers.

"If the bookies set the points too high, for example," he said, "all it has to do is rain and they are wiped out."

Bet-takers in other parts of the country tended to agree with Rozelle's analysis. "The Packers have never left my board," Jimmy Snyder, a licensed Las Vegas bookmaker told the post. "They've been up every day and every game.

"If there was anything suspicious, if anything would have been wrong with the Green Bay Packers in any way, there would have been unnatural money. The unnatural money would have shown here in Vegas more than anywhere in the world. The price would have fluctuated by as much as five points if that happened.

"But there was never any unnatural money. Most of the money has been for Green Bay, and they won by the points in all but two games. I don't know why the Packers are off the boards in New York. That's their headache."

Outagamie County Taxes Up $84,648 to $1,840,820

Clerk's Office Now Figuring Municipalities' Share; Appleton to Pay $988,554

The Outagamie County Board Friday approved a 1963 budget of $4,399,448, which requires a property tax levy of $1,840,820.

That is an increase of $84,648 over last year's tax levy of $1,756,172 to finance county government. (The other $2,558,628 will come from state and federal aids and other incomes such as fees and fines.

In addition, the county will collect $107,529 for the state and an additional $26,805 from various school districts for payments of principal and interest on state loans.

Appleton's share of the Outagamie County property tax levy and state charges will amount to an estimated $988,554. Last year the city cost for those items was $944,061. A tax rate of about $7.28 on Appleton's assessed valuation of $135,700,000 in Outagamie County will raise the money to meet county and state obligations next year.

Last year, a rate of $7.34 was needed to meet the county and state charges on the basis of the 1961 assessed valuation of $128,700,000. Thus, while the city taxpayers will be required to furnish more dollars to the state and county governments, the rate required to raise it will be about the same, or possibly slightly lower.

Not Available

(Exact figures on the shares of the county and state charges to be paid by Appleton and other Outagamie County municipalities will not be available until County Clerk Mollie Pfeffer and her staff have been able to calculate the various charges to be made against each of them. Not all municipalities benefit from or pay taxes for certain county services.)

The total 1963 county budget is up $931,369 from last year, but a major portion of the increase is caused by a change in budgetary procedures for the county hospital and Golden Age Home. All anticipated expenditures and revenues at the hospital and home are included in the total budget figures for 1963. They have not been previously.

Changes made during the week by the board raised the amount of total expenditures and revenues to $4,399,448, an increase of $436,663.

Anticipated revenue was raised by $609,039. The reason for the boost in anticipated revenue is the sale of the Golden Age Home No. 1 in New London to the Sisters of Charity, which brought $165,000 into the general fund, plus $444,039 in expected receipts at the county hospital.

Changes Made

Originally, the budget called for $1,949,589 in revenue. The changes raised the total to $2,558,628.

The increased expenditures included $6,500 for an accounting machine, $3,000 for a part-time assistant district attorney, $7,500 for a county auditor, $17,500 for salary increases and mileage, $5,624 for town aid bridge construction, and $441,570 for the county hospital (which includes Golden Age Home No. 2).

One expenditure item, $47,250, was stricken from the original budget presented Monday because of the sale of the New London Golden Age Home.

Spice Wants Chance To Show What He Can Do Before Changes

Outagamie Board Votes to Table Resolution by County Supervisor

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Outagamie County's Sheriff and Traffic and Radio Departments will continue to operate as separate units, for the time being at least.

The county board this morning voted to table a resolution calling for a combination of the two departments.

The board acted after hearing Sheriff-elect Calvin Spice ask for a chance to "show what I can do before making any major organization changes."

Spice

The resolution, sponsored by Appleton Supv. John R. Schreiter and supported by the Civil Service and Salary, Traffic Police and Radio and Sheriff's Committees, called for a combination of the two departments into a single agency to be known as the Outagamie County Law Enforcement Department.

The resolution specified that the sheriff was to maintain complete control over the new department, but that the present position of undersheriff was to be downgraded to a nominal position with a one dollar per year salary.

A new position, chief deputy, was to replace the undersheriff.

County Clerk

Schreiter's resolution specified that candidates for the new position were to apply in writing to the county clerk, and that written examinations were to be conducted by the county board's executive committee.

The tests were to be graded, and turned over to the sheriff for final selection. The sheriff's recommendation, in turn, was to be approved by the county board. The post was to be a civil service position.

Some of the duties of the chief deputy, as outlined in the resolution, were to be having charge of all administration and police personnel, conducting investigations, assigning work loads, making recommendations to the county board, and providing continuity in office betwen changes in sheriffs.

Both Supvs. Mark Catlin of Appleton and Harold Schmeichel of the Town of Center questioned the wisdom of making the change.

Catlin said, "This deputy, if he is appointed, will have a permanent office, but the sheriff's office is a political one. I think if we're going to do this, we should have factual proof that this new system is a better one.

"I don't think our new sheriff has any super-sensory powers that will make this new system work," Catlin commented.

Appleton Man

Appleton Supv. Phil Retson, one of the signers of the resolution, said, "I completely disagree with Mr. Catlin. We raised this matter when we had a different sheriff, so politics aren't involved. Both in corporations and in the military, there is an executive officer, and the same would be good for our law enforcement agency."

Supv. P. J. Heenan of Appleton asked that Spice be allowed to come before the board and present his ideas on the proposed change.

"We all have better law en-

Stockbridge May Purchase Storage Shed

Sale Depends on Repairs Needed by $24,000 Structure

STOCKBRIDGE — If state industrial commission demands for remodeling are not too severe, it is expected that Stockbridge Township will purchase a building to be used for a town shed. The cost is $24,000.

Clem Ecker, town chairman, pointed out that the entire transaction hinges on the industrial commission's findings. The property, several miles south of the Stockbridge Village along State 55, is owned by Arthur Hemauer. It includes a residence and a modern 40 by 110 foot storage shed used by Hemauer to store a bus fleet.

The town board has requested an inspection by an Industrial Commission representative to determine what revisions will be necessary to bring the structure up to commission requirements for public buildings. If the demands are not overly costly, the transaction will be completed, Ecker said.

He explained that the purchase would effect consolidation of road equipment storage for the township. At present, he said, the town has a shed at Kloten and another in the village with other equipment stored in sheds throughout the township.

The town patrolman, Hugo Lex, would reside in the home attached to the shed. He presently lives at Kloten.

Sugar Bush School Site Approved By New London Board of Education

District Electors Will Get Chance to Vote On Proposal Calling for Swimming Pool

NEW LONDON — The Board of Education Thursday voted to purchase the 12-acre building site for the proposed Sugar Bush elementary school, and decided to hold an advisory referendum on a swimming pool in the proposed high school.

The board has held an option on the $6,000 Sugar Bush site for several months. The money will be taken from the general fund.

No date has been set for a referendum on the bond issue for the two schools or the advisory vote.

The advisory referendum also will cover approximately $30,000 of equipment for a central kitchen and cafeteria. The school attorney said the final decision on whether to include the pool and the kitchen equipment in the school rests with the board.

The referendum on the bond issue, for the two schools, to be held at the same time as the advisory vote, will include the entire cost of the building program, including the two optional units.

Draw Fieldhouse

The board ordered the architect to draw a fieldhouse rather than a gymnasium into the plans for the high school. The size of the structure was set at about 192 by 120 feet. The estimated cost is $371,160, compared to an estimated cost of $270,300 for the gymnasium.

Folding partitions are not included in either estimate. The field house will have 14,210 square feet more space than the gymnasium. In the roll call vote, Mrs. Marion Markman and Dean Kronwell opposed the larger fieldhouse.

On the issue of the high school site, the board confirmed its June 26 decision to place the building on the Abraham site. Members of the city planning commission were present at the special meeting to discuss the question of the Abraham site versus the Allen property.

Review Test

A test boring received by the board last spring was reviewed by a representative of the Warzyn Engineering Co. He said the water problem was not a major problem on either site. The tests showed that the Allen property soil would withstand 6,000 pounds pressure per square foot and the Abraham property about 2,000 pounds, he said. Larger footings would be needed on the Abraham site.

The architect's representatives said the only reason they recommended the Abraham site was that it was the larger of the two sites.

The board learned approximate building costs of the high school. The average high school is built at a cost of $13.50 to $14.50 per square foot. Breaking the figures down for various sections of the school, field house construction runs $8.50 to $9 per square foot, compared with $10 for a gymnasium.

Costs of a central kitchen and cafeteria without equipment were estimated between $16 and $17 a square foot. The academic portion averages $14 a square foot, and

Appleton Tax Rate Will be Close to $47

It now appears the Appleton tax rate in Outagamie County will be close to $47 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

The Appleton budget at this point would require a levy of $38.68, an increase of $1.91 over last year's figure of $36.77.

However, Friday it was revealed that income tax shares for this year may be $140,000 less than anticipated, practically wiping out an anticipated balance at the end of the year of $147,000. Another $1 on the rate would be required to make up the difference, bringing the increase for city purposes only (county and state charges still to be added) to $2.91, or a total of $39.68.

A county (and state) rate of $7.28 would make the total rate $46.96, compared to last year's $44.10 in the Outagamie portion of Appleton.

The near - $3 increase would practically wipe out the benefits of the refund from the sales tax, designed to help reduce property taxes. It is estimated that will amount to $3.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation in Appleton.

The Appleton council still may make changes in the anticipated expenditures and receipts when the council meets Wednesday to adopt the budget.

Supervisor Defends Fischer, Says There Was No Censure

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Supv. Al Fischer's conduct during the Outagamie County Board session was defended Friday afternoon, and the rulings of Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath, along with reports in the Appleton Post-Crescent, were criticized.

Eugene Kloes, supervisor from Appleton's 15th Ward, assailed what he referred to as "Ponath's misinterpretation of the law of legislative immunity" and what he called inaccurate Post-Crescent reference to the board's action against Fischer as "censure."

Kloes said the Post-Crescent may have called it censure, "but that was their opinion. Then," he said, "they came and peddled their efforts out in the hall near where the board was meeting."

One Town?

"Well," Kloes stated, "we only have a one town newspaper and that's what we can expect." (Apparently Kloes called the Post-Crescent a one-town newspaper, when he meant to call Appleton a one-newspaper town.)

"Yesterday," Kloes said, "we passed a resolution as to what we expect in the way of conduct on the county board floor.

"But," he went on, "the statutes as read by Mr. Ponath were completely in error.

"The Blue Book says there is a definite privilege in debate as to what has been said on the floor."

Then Kloes turned his criticism in Ponath's direction.

Went Beyond Duty

"Mr. Ponath went above and beyond the call of duty in the way he handled the resolution against Al Fischer," Kloes charged.

"By the law, Mr. Ponath," Kloes said, "we do have legislative immunity. This resolution need not have come on the floor."

Cold Second Half Costly to Defending Champion Indians

CENTRAL WISCONSIN CONFERENCE

Friday Night's Results:
Manawa 67, Iola-Scand. 50.
Waupaca 30, Bonduel 26.
Wautoma 45, Weyauwega 36.
Wittenberg 58, Amherst 50.
Marion 76, Tigerton 31 (Non-Conf.).

Wautoma staged the first major surprise of Central Wisconsin Conference action Friday night by coming from behind to stun defending champion Weyauwega, 45-36, in the league opener.

The Indians, with eight lettermen returning from last year's title-winning quintet and pre-season favorites to repeat, fell victim to a "cold" second half.

After taking a 12-6 first-quarter lead and maintaining the advantage at 23-18 through halftime, Weyauwega was held to eight points in the third period. Wautoma, meanwhile, was chipping away at the lead with 11 points in the stanza to close the gap to 31-29 at quarter's end.

With Dave Peterson leading the way in the closing segment, Wautoma racked up 16 tallies while 'Wega could muster only five.

Peterson and Chuck Piper paced the winners with 15 and eight points, respectively. Dennis Peterson's 12 points and Jack Wohlt's nine led the way for the losers.

In other opening conference action, Waupaca squeezed by Bonduel, 30-26. Manawa posted a 67-50 verdict over Iola-Scandinavia, and Wittenberg surprised Amherst, 58-50.

Scores 19 Points

The Waupaca - Bonduel duel featured a battle of first game jitters, the only exception being the Comets' Gary Johanknecht who scored 19 of his team's 30 points to lead the way to victory.

Waupaca's 8-3. lead at the initial quarter was the biggest advantage either team could manage during the entire contest.

Johanknecht took game scoring honors for the winners while Owen Boettcher and Mike Weix scored nine each for the losers.

Manawa's 26-point outburst in the first period proved the difference in its conquest of Iola-Scandinavia.

The losers' starting five averaged only 5-8 in height but they managed to outscore the Wolves in the second and third segments, before succumbing to another Manawa outburst in the final period.

Don Thiels' 16 points were high for Manawa, Bill Rohde, Jim Buschke and Bill Testin chipped in with 12 each. Terry Erickson of I-S paced all scorers with 21 markers.

Wittenberg's Wildcats supplied the evening's other surprise as they overcame a 15-10 first-period deficit enroute to their 58-50 triumph over Amherst.

The Wildcats moved ahead to stay in the third quarter, taking a 39-37 lead at period's end. They outscored Amherst, 19-13, in the closing stanza to preserve the victory.

Steve Strong was the big gun for Wittenberg as he controlled both boards and captured game scoring honors with 24 points. Don Liesch contributed 15 for the winners. Jon Oberman and John Pitt paced Amerst with 14 points each.

estimated costs for the little theater were $11 to $12 a square foot.

The board decided to refer to the little theater area as a team teaching center. Other team teaching areas in the academic portion of the building were vetoed because of the high cost of the necessary removable partitions.

The board learned that because of the field house, other changes, and the type of construction requested by the administration and board, the estimated cost of $2.7 million for the two buildings will have to be raised.

Costs of the Sugar Bush school will exceed $300,000, the architect's representatives said, and the cost of the high school will be more than $2.5 million, pushing the total near the $3 million mark.

The only board discussion on the Sugar Bush school was whether a $20,000 storm cellar should be included in the plans. The question was kept out of the advisory referendum because a board member said voters in the southern portion of the district did not understand the north area and would not vote for a storm cellar.

Used Room

The architect's representative said the cellar, which is planned for as a multipurpose room, could possibly be classified for limited use as a fallout shelter.

The board discussed whether the new high school should be a three or four-year school. Data compiled by school officials show that a four-year school, favored by the administration, would have 816 students at the start of the 1964-1965 school year. This figure would climb to 1,164 students by the 1975-1976 school year. The academic section of the school is designed for a recommended 800 students.

The architect's representative said the other portions of the building, including the field house, would be built for 1,000 students.

The data presented was taken from a survey report conducted by the University of Wisconsin.

forcement in mind," Spice said, "but during my campaign for sheriff I said I was not in favor of this new plan as long as the sheriff's position was to remain in politics.

"This new plan puts the traffic department under a politically elected man," Spice pointed out. He said, "When I was running for sheriff I was against this, and I hope that by opposing this plan, I'm not antagonizing people who proposed this plan to the extent that they won't give me what I ask for in the future.

"If I had known this was coming up," Spice declared, "I wouldn't have run for sheriff because my chances for promotion within the department would have been good.

"Keep the organization the same," he pleaded, "and give me a chance to see what kind of cooperation I can get out of the traffic department. Maybe after a year I'll find out it doesn't work. Then," he said, "we could consider the changes."

Spice said the proposed revamping of the two departments was "starting at the bottom and working toward the top, rather than starting at the top and working toward the bottom."

Capt. Ronald Decker of the traffic police appeared before the board and assured the supervisors that Spice would receive full cooperation from the traffic department.

Schmeichel said the resolution should be amended so as to make it effective Jan. 1, 1965. "I'm not trying to delay this," he explained, "but I think this matter should be brought up before an election, not just after one."

Supv. Eugene Kloes of Appleton, said "whether the board accepts this plan or not, they (the Traffic Police and Radio Department) are going to be asking for more help in the form of investigators and policemen, so it's going to cost the county more money anyway.

"We can't eliminate the political issue," Kloes said, "because that's the state's business. But we've always been told not to tamper with the sheriff. Well, we'll leave him alone, but at least with a chief deputy, we'll have some continuity in office.

"And if Mr. Spice is worried," Kloes added, "he needn't be, because we're not usurping any of his authority.

One Year

Supv. Chris Roepcke of the Town of Cicero said "I think we should give Mr. Spice at least a year to show what he can do" and then motioned to have the matter laid over until a later date.

Catlin agreed with Roepke but said, "Properly, we should table this motion, so that it could be brought up at any time in the future.

tive immunity does not mean that anyone can file a written paper which contains slanderous charges."

Ponath agreed that legislative immunity does apply to oral debate, but he said, "He filed a paper. There was no debate. Anyone who calls that legislative immunity doesn't know what he's talking about."

Ponath objected strenuously to Kloes' referral to him as "a busy little bee" and asked, "Do I have to go to Mr. Fischer or Mr. Kloes or any other individual board member (to clear his actions) to keep from having slander thrown at me?"

Private Attorney

Kloes stated that Ponath had acted as a private attorney for Vernon J. Stannard, former director of the county's Golden Age Home at New London, when Stannard offered to purchase the home.

"What about Mr. Stannard?" Kloes asked. "You acted as his attorney all the way. You even coached him out in the hallway."

Ponath said, "I was asked to go over the lease with him, which Mr. Stannard had prepared by his own attorney."

Kloes denied that was true.

Conradt then entered the heated discussion, saying, "I don't think Mr. Stannard should hire an attorney, when the county already has one."

County Sold Home

(The county sold the Golden Age Home to the Sisters of Charity, a Roman Catholic order, for $165,000. A request by Stannard to purchase the home under a lease-land contract arrangement involving a total purchase price of $200,000 was considered by the board before it accepted the sisters' offer.)

Fischer said: "In relation to the New London hospital, Mr. Ponath would have been in his rights to work with Mr. Stannard if it was a county matter, but Mr. Stannard was negotiating a personal contract."

Then Fischer once again read to the county board the first paragraph of his letter which he claimed contained nothing slanderous.

"As we sit here today, gentlemen," Fischer stated, "you don't know how unbelieveable the situation is.

"When I said yesterday that I was sorry, I meant it," Fischer concluded, "but some of us are afraid to hear the truth."

Chilton Tigers Tip Stockbridge By 45-36 Score

Season's 1st Game Won After String Of 18 Losses

CHILTON — The Chilton Tigers took advantage of some cold shooting and loose basketball by the Stockbridge Indians in the first period building up a 14-2 lead and went on to post a 45-36 decision here Friday night.

Thus the Tigers accomplished in the first game this season what they waited 18 contests to do last year — win a ball game. The game was the opener for Chilton. Stockbridge took its second setback of the new campaign.

After the first period it was an even frame. The Indians pulled to within two points at the half only to fall back by 12 after the third period.

Tom Selk and Tom Dhein paced the Tigers to their first period margin. The Indians couldn't find the range and lost the ball four times in the period without getting off a shot. Free throws by Tom Schoen and Gary Daun represented the first period scoring for Stockbridge.

Indians Roll

A strategy change injected at the quarter started the Indians rolling. They came out in a full-court press and it was the Tigers' turn to lose the ball when they were unable to cope with the aggressive defenders. Sparked by Steve Meyer's seven points in the period, the Indians rolled to an 18-8 advantage to cut the Tiger lead to a pair, 22-20, at the half.

Piling up fouls, the Indians relaxed the press in the third period and Chilton took command outscoring Stockbridge 15-5 in the period and regain their 12 point advantage after three periods. The score was 37-25.

The visitors outscored Chilton 11-8 in the final stanza.

Stockbridge's fine guard, Steve Meyer, topped all scorers with 14 points coming on five baskets and four gift shots. Selk and Dhein paced Chilton with 13 and 11 points, respectively.

The Tigers open the league season Wednesday night here against Valders.
